And They Join in the Repudiation of His Ill-Tem-pered Speech—General Wheeler's Speech on Stanton Excites the Pennsylvania Con-gressman-Other News Mention.

WASHINGTON, June 8. — [Special.] — What might have developed into a bitter sec tional debate in the house today was averted by the reckless harangue of Mr. Kelly of Pennsylvania. In his remark on his motion to have the recent speech of General Joe Wheeler expunged from the Record, he so completely lost his temper that he ceased his attack on Wheeler and sailed into all the republicans who fer and sailed into all the republicans who were present at last Friday night's session. He dencunced them as conspirators in an effect to blacken the memory of Stanton because they had not instantly replied to Wheeler. This brought Hepburn and Henderson of lows to their feet and a practical little family. lows to their feet and a pretty little family row ensued among the republicans, which the democrats greatly enjoyed. Kelley's speech failed to produce anything like a sensation, and most of the republicans as well as the democrats regard the episode as a poor show. The resolu-tion to expunge Wheeler's speech went to the committee on rules, and will never be heard from again. While northern men frequently abuse Stanton and show up his tyranny and selfishness, they all spring to their feet to defend him whenever a southerner hints that he was not in every respect a great and good CLEVELANDS' RETURN.

President Clevelend's return to Washington was hastened by the fact that nearly three hundred bills are awaiting his signature. Nearly all of these are pension bills and almost all of them were passed by the senate in one day. Since the president has begun to examine into the merit of pension hills, the republican senate has adopted a fashion of bunching them in such a way as to defeat his purpose to know the grounds on which each pension is granted. Once the senate passed nearly four hundred of these bills in one day, with less than a dozen senators present. Now another lot of over two hundred is rushed through in the same way. The president is allowed only ten days from the receipt of a bill to examine, and if he fails to veto it within that time, it becomes a law without his signature. It is utterly impossible for him to examine these great numbers of pension bills in the time allowed, and many which he would otherwise veto thus escape; as he recently informed congress, in every in-stance where he can't give a bill the fullest examination, he will decline to sign it, and thus let the responsibility for its passage rest where it justly belongs. The president is badly sunburned as the result of his fishing and frolicking in the mountains. He arrived at half past seven and an hour later was hard at work in his office. He evidently means to settle down to business MASHINGTON, June 8.—In the senate, Mr. Morrill, from the committee on finance, reported a bill creating an additional secretary of the treasury. He asked immediate consideration of the bill, in view, he said, of the emergency known to all senators.

On objection by Mr. Hoar, the bill went on the calendar. Mr. Hoar saying it was a bill of too much consequence to consider on the instant.

Agreed to.

The military relief of the naval cadets dropped from the rolls by operation of the naval appropriation bill of 1882, was then discussed for some time, slightly amended and finally laid upon the table. The senate then proceeded with bills on the calendar.

A bill to authorize the secretary of the treasury to settle the claim of the state of Florida account of the expenditure made in sup-ressing Indian hostilities. (This bill was terward reconsidered for the purpose of mendment, on motion of Mr. Call).

imendment, on motion of Mr. Call).

A bill to provide for the repair of Fort Marion, at St. Augustine, Fla.

A bill providing for a commission of three persons, to be appointed by the president, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, to investigate the truth of the alleged discoveries of a specific cause of yellow fever. The commission is directed to go to Mexico and, if necessary, to Cuba, Central America and Brazil, for the purposes of investigation. The commissioners are to be medical men, one or more of them to be an officer or officers of the government, specially versed in biological research, particularly in the microscopic inresearch, particularly in the microscopic investigation of germs of contagious diseases.

WHEELER'S SPEECH. An Effort to Have It Expuaged From the Washington, June 8.—In the house, Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, rising to a question of privilege, stated that the remark made by him in colloquy with Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, when that gentleman was delivering a speech attacking Edwin M. Stanton, had been "by some mysterious mistake," misplaced in the Record.

Mr. Wheeler stated that the misplacement Air. Wheeler stated that the misplacement was entirely accidental, and he had no objection to the correction being made.

On motion of Mr. Reed, of Maine, a senate bill was passed for the relief of Chester A. Arthur and William H. Robertson, late collectors of customs for the district of the city of New York.

New York.

Mr. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, called up as a privileged question the motion submitted by him yesterday to expunge from the Record the speech of Mr. Wheeler, of Alabama, upon Edwin M. Stanton. He based his question of privilege on the conscious, deliberate, persistent abuse of the order of the house by the representative from the eighth district of Alabama. In lieu of the motion made yestorday, he submitted a resolution reciting that. Bir. Wheeler has been guilty of the abuse of the order of the house, inasmuch as his speech order of the house, inasmuch as his speed had not been made upon any pension bill, and declaring as the delivery of the speech was without sanction of the house, and in contravention of the speecial order, said speech be expunged from the Record, and prohibiting the public printer from publishing it in pamphlet or other form.

Mr. Resgan, of Texas, raised a point of or-

and therefore could not be an offense against the bouse.

The speaker replied that it was not in the province of the chair to decide whether it was an abuse or not. It was alleged to be an abuse by the gentleman from Pennsylvania, and the question was to be decided by the house.

Mr. Kelley then proceeded to spoak at length, and his remarks were listened to with great attention by the house. He was length, and his remarks were listened to with great attention by the house. He was unwilling, he said, that the future readers of the record of the proceedings of this congress should, by any possibility, be able to suspect him of having sat by, through what must have involved three hours, listening to slanders which had been refuted for twenty five years, and many of which were now absolutely putrescent, of one of the most unselfish patriots the country ever produced, and one of the most beloved friends he had ever known, in his long life. He was unwilling that he should be suspected of listening to a paper which feebly regretted that in a moment of heat, its author had denounced Abrahem Lincoln and Edwin M. Stanton as conspirators, and Stanton as an arch conspirator against the character of particular American spirators, and Stanton as an arch conspirantor against the character of particular American citizens, and as combining to thwart the success of the union army. He was unwilling that posterity should be told through the Congressional Record that the republican party had sat quietly in the hours of midnight to hear these slanders on Lincoln and Stanton, poured cut, hour by hour, and that no man, either republican or democrat, who had perilled his life under the administration of the war power by Lincoln and Stanton for the support of the under, should have failed to say, "these slanders are now effensive to the olfactories of drs are now offensive to the olfactories of all benest, loyal union men, having festered in heaps of breathing noxious odors, or been consigued scores of years ago to the cesspools of gessip." The country owed something to the illustrious dead, and he did not believe such scandalous matter as was embodied in twenty-five columns of this raper would be sent to posterity with the

he did not believe such scandalous matter as was embodied in twenty-five columns of this paper would be sent to posterity with the sauction of the American congress, which, if it vindicated its own order, must declare that there was no warrant for uttering the speech, and none for declaring through the Congressional Record that it had been made with unanimous consent of the house.

Mr. Kelley said that Mr. Stanton knew, as early as May, 1862, that he was assailed, and knew that whether his life should be longer or short, he would be survived by jackals, hycus and ghouls, who, seeking objects of slander in the grave. Would rehash scandalous stories that must bring pain to his family and his friends, Mr. Kelley then read slowly, and with emphasis, a long letter, dated May 18, 1862, from Stanton to Rev. Hammond Dyer, a personal friend of long standing. In opening Stanton says:

I have been very well aware of the calumnies busily circulated against me in New York and clewrere, respecting my relations to General Mcclellan, but an compelled, from public considerations, to withhold proofs that would stamp the falsehood of the accusations and the base motives of the accusers, who belong to two classes: First, slanderers who have been driven from the department when they were forging millions; second, secheming politicians whose designs are endangered by an earnest, resolute and uncompromising presecution of this war, as a war against rebels and traitors.

He then makes a statement of the facts on

He then makes a statement of the facts on official record, concerning McClellan's cam-paign, in the course of which he says that Mc-Clellan never made a request or expressed a wish that was not promptly complied with, if in the power of the government. He concludes his letter with the following summary: cludes his letter with the following summary:

The official records will, at the proper time, fully prove: First. That I have employed the whole power of the government unsparingly to support McClelian's operations. Second. That I have not interfered with or thwarted them in any particular. Third. That the force retained from his expedition was not needed, and could not have been employed by him; that it was retained by expects of of the president upon military investigation, and upon the best military advice in the country that its retention was required to save the capital from the danger to which it was expected by cisregard of the president's positive orders of the sixth of March; Fourth, that between the president and myself there never has been the slightest shadow of difference, upon any point, save the detechment of Franklin's force, and that was a point of no significance, but in which I was sustained by Generals Hitchcock, Meegs, Thomas and Ripley, while the president yielded only to an anxious desire to avoid complaint, declaring at the same time his belief that the force was not needed by General McClelian. You will, of course, word this contention and the stricts. instant.

Mr. Dawes offered a resolution calling up on the secretary of the treasury for information as to the legal authority of opinions and decisions upon which was based the action of the treasury in postponing the collection of the treasury in postponing the collection of the tax on whisky bonded for export, and afterwards returned to this country in 1885 and terwards returned to this country in 1885 and the magnitude of the cause all merely individual questions are swallowed up.

The conclusion of the letter was received.

The conclusion of the letter was received with loud applause on the republican side. Mr. Kelley then read a short extract from a etter of General Grant, to show the high acter, and he expressed his surprise that the rattling of the bones of Grant had not dis-turbed the conspirators who had claimed to have power to give unanimous consent to the setting aside of the special order last Friday

Immediately Mr. Wheeler took the floor on the privileged question, and said that he wished to correct some statements which had been made regarding him, which were not

The speaker said disagreements between the members as to the correctness or incorrectness of what was said did not present a question of privilege. If the gentleman was charged with having corruptly or knowingly made false statements, or with having made a statement for the purpose of misleading the house, ment for the purpose of misleading the house, it did present a question of privilege. The general course of the remarks made by the gentleman from Pennsylvania had been to show that the statements made by the gentleman from Alabama, were not correct, but the chair did not remember that the gentleman from Pennsylvania had said that the gentleman from Alabama had knowingly made a false statement.

Mr. Hepburn, of Colorado, speaking to a question of privilege, said while he did not concur in any one particular with Mr. Wheeler's remarks, and should, at the proper time, uply to them, he objected to Kelley's use of the word "conspirator," as applied to those who had listened to Wheeler's speech, and maintained that it was perfectly competent for Mr. Wheeler to make it. He was not willing to put an indignity on the gentleman from Alabama, when, at the most, he had only vio-lated the good faith of history, and possibly of truth, but none of the rules of the house.

Mr. McMillan, of Tennessee, and Mr. Anderderson, of Kansas, also denied the conspiracy, and maintained Wheeler's right to speak as he

Mr. Morrison cut short further discussion by moving to refer Kelley's resolution to the committee on rules. Agreed to.

IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE. The house then went into committee of the whole on the legislative, executive and judical appropriation bill. The bill appropriates

Mr. Helman read the list, Reaching the clause making the appropriation for the civil service commission, he stated that the amount appropriated was the same as that given for the present fiscal year $21,400, but there was a proviso added requiring a certification of the entire list of applicants certification of the entire list of applicants from each state who had passed examination. This requirement, he argued, was not a change in the existing law, but was simply a limitation on the expenditure of money.

Mr. Butterworth inquired whether this provision did not nullify the most important provision of the civil service law, and whether its object was not to enable the appointing power the negative. It was, he contended, a matter of justice to the applicant, who was successful in passing the examination.

E. B. Taylor, of Ohio, asked whether the main object of the provision was not to secure the appointment of more democrats.

Mr. Holman replied that so far as that was concerned, he must answer no. He would say, however, that if the provision had the incidental result of increasing the number of democratic employes, he did not think the gentleman ought to complain. He was convinced that that would be the result, but his motive was justice to the applicant and justice to the government.

motive was justice to the applicant and justice to the government.

Mr. Findlay, of Missouri, inquired whether the object of the provision was not to enlarge the scope of the choice for political purposes.

Mr. Holman—To enlarge the scope of choice, I admit, but for governmental purposes and for the purpose of even-handed justice.

Mr. Findlay—I am opposed to certifying all the cligibles up to the appointing officer. I

Mr. Findlay—I am opposed to certifying all the eligibles up to the appointing officer. I am in favor of the administration being carried on with the highest regard to honor, without regard to party.

Mr. Springer, of Illinois, thought that before the republicans accused the democrats of undue partisanship, they should be willing to divide the classified service with the democrats until the classified service was half composed of democrats. He thought the gentleposed of democrats. He thought the gentle men on the other side should be silent on the subject of civil service reform. Until this time the democratic party would continue to press this point.

The civil service provision was further criticised by Messrs. Cannon, of Illinois, and McCom-as, of Michigan. In the course of McComas's speech a collequy occurred between himself and Mr. Randall, in which Mr. Randall admitted that his admiration for the civil service law had been somewhat tempered on account of the regulations under which it was executed. He did not believe the civil service law had ever been honestly administered by the republican party. The rule of the com-mission, which it was proposed to change. was a rotten branch on a healthy tree, and he wanted to take an ax and chop it off.

The committee then rose.

THE POLYCAMY BILL.

Mr. Oats, of Alavama, from the committee on judiciary, saked leave to report back the Edmunds polygamy bill, but Mr. Caine, of Utah, objected. The roint was made that the delegate had not the right to object, and the speaker took the point under advisement. The house then, at 5 o'clock, adjourned.

The House Committee Agrees on a Substitute For It.

Washington, June 8.—The house committee on invalid pensions today agreed to report, as a substitute for Senator; Blair's pension bill, the bill introduced by Mr. Ellsberry, of Ohio, with amendments. The Blair bill granted divisible pensions according to disabilities, ranging from $24 per month down to $9 to invalid soldiers and sailors of the United States in the late civil war, who are dependent upon their daily labor for support. The bill agreed upon by the house committee provides for a uniform pension of $12 per month for all soldiers and sailors who are absolutely disabled and unable to maintain themselves, and does and unable to maintain themselves, and does

THE SIGNAL SERVICE.

A joint commission of congress to consider the present organization of the signal service, geological survey, the coast geodetical survey, and the hydrographic office were suggested to congress today. The majority report is signed by Senators Allison, Hale and Representatives Lowdy and Waite, but the last named does not concur in that notion relating to the signal concur in that portion relating to the signal service. This report recommends the continuance of the hydrographic effice, exactly as at present organized. It recommends that the cost survey be maintained as a separate inceast survey be maintained as a separate institution, as at present, until it shall complete its work. It recommends that specific appropriations be made hereafter for the printing of monographs and bulletins of geological survey, and that none of this work be done until the estimates have been made and offers made therefor. It recommends the abolition of the signal service school at Fort Myer, Virginia, and the gradual substitution of civiling emits. and the gradual substitution of civilian em-ployes for enlisted men of the signal service, when the terms of the latter shall expire. It also recommends the repeal of the law providing for the appointment of two second lieuing for the appointment of two second lieutenants from the ranks of the signal corps. The majority finds much to commend in the work and organization of each of the bureaus. The minority report, signed by Morgan, Herbert and Waite, recommends the passage of the Morgan bill to abolish the signal service bureau on July 1st, 1886, and the establishment in its stead of the weather bureau as a civil establishment.

The superintendent of the free delivery service says that it will be difficult to comply with the law, owing to the frequent changes in the time of the arrival and departure of mails, which will require a reorganization of the force from time to time, even with an in-

THE NEWS IN THE COUNTRY.

There is intense excitement throughout the whole country over the outcome of the long parliamentary contest. The conservatives and whigs are everywhere making the day one of inhibiter incling hosting bookings fring whigs are everywhere making the day one of jubilee, ringing bells, lighting bonfires, firing cannon and singing "God Save the Queen." The dispatches from Ireland state that at Belfast, Londonderry, Lurgen, Armagh and other towns, the loyalists have been stoned during their parades and demonstrations, but up to a late hour this afternoon no case of fighting or extreme violence has been reported. The weight of opinion is that Gladstone will dissolve parliament on the 2-th instant, and it is expected the elections will occupy a month, and that the new house will assemble in the eccond week of August.

To the queen the instant it was known. Gladstone will send a special messenger to the queen tonight, with a letter recommending that her measure display a parliament. that her majesty dissolve parliament as the only means to secure stable government. If the queen does not exercise her prerogative and summon Hartington to form a new minis-try, Mr. Gladstone, on Thursday, will ask the house of commons to proceed with the supply bill, and will indicate the queen's intention to dissolve parliament at an early date.

F. M. Healy, nationalist, member for South Londonderry, just before Gladstone moved the adjournment of the house this morning, arese and attempthd to make a speech. He addressed himself to the premier, and exclaimed: "I ask you to remember Frederick Douglass's words that—" Here the uproar drowned Healy's voice, and the reporter could not catch the remainder of his sentence.

Thomas Pender O'Conner, at about the same time: "Rejoice that the dictatorship of intrigue and incapacity is now ended."

John Bright voted with the opposition. His example was followed by twelve Scotch liberals.

THE NEWS IN IRELAND. There is the wildest enthusiasm among the levalists in the north of Ireland over the defeat of the home rule bill. Rockets were sent up at Coleraine, county Londonderry, last night, announcing the news to the adjacent towns, and soon the news was known through-out Ulster. Ten thousand loyalists paraded atj Lurgen this morning in honor of their victory.

WHAT THE PRESS HAS TO SAY. The Standard says that the house of commons, by its vote defeating the home rule bill, has saved itself from degradation and the empire from disruption. It has also read a lesson to Ireland which, after the irritation has subsided, will, we trust, be duly appreci-ated by the quick-witted inhabitants of that island. Gladstone, Parnell and Morley may rest satisfied that what the present house has refused to do, no house returned on an appeal o constituencies to decide between unity and en ration can ever be induced to sanction The Times says the vote will encourage the loyalists of Ireland to hope that their kinsmen here will never abandon them to the uncovenanted mercies of the Ir'sh National league and its paymasters in America. Mr. Gladstone exerted all his marvelous powers of int midation, mystification and persuasion in favor of his bill. We rejoice that the majority against it was decisive and crushing. This speaks well for the independence and courage of the house of commons. It is strong testimony in favor of the encouraging belief that mony in favor of the encouraging belief that Englishmen and Scotchmen, are not ready to submit themselves to the leveling influence of the machine politics of America. The point is, if the government had been granted a second reading, they would have reintroduced the same bill. On this is sue the division was taken, and the bill was condemned in both the present and future teases.

The News, (ministerial) says: "A dissolu-ion has been rendered inevitable by las night's vote. Parnell's emphatic declaration that Ireland would accept Gladstone's bill as a final settlement, will have a wider influence with the nation today than all the astute and minute criticisms of Goschen."

The Telegraph (conservative) says: "We are persuaded that the voice of the house of commons faithfully reflected the opinion of the country. The debate sustained the historic reputation of the British parliament for lofty oratory, which reached a climax on the closing night. The unity of the kingdom has been preserved by the first great declaration been preserved by the first great declaration of the British democracy come to power."

The Chronicle says: "We are left with a clear issue. This must be taken between the policy of Lord Hartington and the policy of Gladstone. The country must now decide the question."

The "Post," (conservative,) says: The result remained doubtful to the last moment. It was even feared that Gladston's eloquent appeal would cause enough abstentions to ppeal would cause enough abstentions to appeal would cause enough abstentions to save the bill."

The Pall Mall Gazette puts over its editorial on last night's vote, the caption: "A day's march nearer home rule." The Gazette then says it believes that the general election will result in Gladstone's defeat, and that a second election will be necessary before the question can be settled. "The only way." continues the paper," in which the problem can be solved is on the basis of delegated autherity to deal with specified local affairs, and of continued Irish representation in the imperial parliament. St. James Gazette says: The great "aye" or "no" must be spoken before the home rule fiend can be squelched. The unionists will not shrink from the decision with last evening's honors fresh on them. The disruption bill and Gladstone will give both nations abundant trouble for many years, but both are politically dead and past resustation. The Freeman's Journal, Parnell's organ says: The principle of home rule is for the moment defeated, but it is not killed, The bill has been lost, but the principle of home rule triumphs. The Dublin Express (conservative) says: "It is yet too soon to triumph. The constitution it is true, has won the first pitched battle, but from politics.

Most Rev. James Donnelly, D. D., Roman Catholic bishop of Clogher, county Tyrone, Ireland, and all the priests of his diocese, have sent an address to Gladstone, stating that they "cannot consent longer to be tramped upon by the relentless orangemen of Ulster."

ME. MOBLEY SPEAKS.

John Morley, in a speech tonight, said he was not aware when the government would resign. He believed that, in spite of defeat, the home rule bill would become a law very shortly. The constituencies certainly would never consent to coercion, which meant misery in Ireland to corcion, which meant misery in Ireland and disorder at Westminster. Every one respected Lord Hartington and his followers, and the other liberal dissenters who would have to answer to the country for their conductive to the country for the conductive to the country for the country for their conductive to the country for the country for the country f duct, as he impressed upon his hearers the importance of not forgetting, in case of an elec-tion, that unless the liberal majority exceeded 85, the Parnellites would have complete control of parliament.

Indicting the Knights of Labor for Conspiracy.

PITTSBUEG, June S,—The Oakland street car company has entered suits in the United States court today against Richard Campbell, master workman of the street car assembly Knights of Labor, and Edward Wood, Henry Gamble and Robert Eberhardt, charging them with conspiracy. The accused were in the employ of the company, and struck recently for the twelve hour schedule. President Gordon, of the company, alleges that they conspired to prevent the running of cars, and interfered with the men who wanted to work. Woods and Campbell were arrested and held for healing in $500 bail each. War-rents are now out for Campbell and Eberhardt. Suits were entered under section 5507 of the laws of the United States, which provides that two or more persons who conspire, oppose or threaten a citizen in the discharge of his duty, or pursuit of business, shall be subject, on corviction, to a fine of $1,000 or ten years imprisonment.

HONEYMOON CUT SHORT

THE PRESIDENT AND HIS BRIDEGO BACK TO WASHINGTON.

Ine Special Train Suddenly Ordered Out—The Presi-dent and His Bride and Mr. and Mrs. Lamont Take a Last View of the Country—The Trip Back to Washington, Etc.

DEER PARK, June 8 .- Early this moraing

John W. Davis, who has had charge of the presidential party, was notified that the president desired to make a trip to Washington, and that he would like to have his special follow closely after the midday train, known among railway men as No. 6. An engine was at once ordered from Grafton, and the palace cars "Baltimore" and "Delaware," were put in readiness for the reception of the party. What caused so sudden an alteration of the plan is not known, as it was thought last night that the bride and groom would remain at the mountain a day or two longer. Secretary Lamont may have considered his presence in Washington indispensable, and worked upon the feelings of his superior, but Mr. Lamont has not shown himself to the newspaper men, and nothing can be learned newspaper men, and nothing can be learned of his complicity in his plan to cut short the presidential honeymoon. At half-past ten this morning, a carriage was brought to the cottage, and the president and Mrs. Cleveland and secretary and Mrs. Lamont started out for a drive. They went to what is known as observatory hill, about two miles from the executive cottage, where a magnificent view of the surrounding country is obstainable.

A GIFT FROM CHILDS.

By Which He Makes the Printers Very, Very Glad.

PITTSBURG, June 8 .- When the national PITTSEURG, June 8.—When the national typographical union was about to adjourn, President Wilber said that James J. Daily, of the Philadelphia Union, had a matter to lay before the convention. Mr. Daily arose in the center of the room, and said he had been delegated by George W. Childs, to present a letter to the convention. "Childs," said he, "takes deep interest in the welfare of the workingmen, but his intimate relation with the typographical fraternity make them more particularly the object of his attention. ways ready and willing to extend to them the weight of his name and influence. The letter was as follows:

Philabelphia, June 5, 1886.—To the president and members of the International Typographical union, assembled in Pittsburg—Gentlemen: With this letter is an inclosure, which it was intended should be handed you by James J. Dailey, with verbai message of good wishes; but at his suggestion, it is accompanied by a written communication. It is known to some of your members that I feel a warm interest in what concerns the welfare of all who work for wages, and in the wise management of trades unions and other kindred organizations, it has become advisable for them to establish for the promotion of their true interests. This feeling being especially strong towards the printers unions, with whose members I have had close and very satisfactory business relations for many years, it is my earnest desire—a desire in which I am heartily joined by my friend, A. J. Drexel—to extend to the time-honored International Typographical union, as the representative of the United States in North America, some expression more substantial than words. How to do this in a way that may produce lasting good has engaged the Ihoughts of both Drexel and myself, and we concluded that your union, or such trustees as you may select for the purpose, will know better than ourselves how that good can be best accomplished. We therefore send to you herewith by the hand of Mr. Dailey, foreman in the Public Ledger office, our cheek for the amount of $19,000, $5,000 from the undersigned, without condition or suggestion of any kind, as an absolute gift, in the full cenfidence that the segacious and conservative counsellors of your union will make or order a wise use of it for the good of the union. The Beason in Full Blast in LaGrange- in Eloquent mencement Bermon-The Commencemen Exercises in Shorter Female College-Interesting Incidents of the Day.

ROME, Ga., June 8 .- [Special.] -The commencement sermon of Shorter college was preached at the Baptist church Sunday by Rev. Dr. Lansing Burrows, of Augusta. The church was filled to overflowing. The music was very fine, the anthem "The God of Israel" being especially well rendered.

being especially well rendered.

Dr. Burrows chose for his text, Ruth, 1-1s: "And Orpah kissed her mother-in-law; but Ruth clave unto her." The doctor handled his text with a master hand, making a deep impression on all present. The preacher commenced by analyzing the characters of Orpah and Ruth, bound together for years by the most tender of ties, dwelling in sweet domestic harmony beneath the same roof, from the bent form of weeping Maomi, their paths diverge. The one hurries back into obscurity; the other moves onward to mount the throne of kings. Of Ruth, poets have sung: around her brow have been wreathed the garlands of oratory. The lesson of her faith and patience and herofsm have not been lost upon the world. Orpah's affections were real, but not strong enough to sink beneath them the consideration of self.

While, said the speaker, I do not say there is no place for pleasant recreation in every step of huplace for pleasant recreation in every step of hu man existence, I do say it is wrong to make out desires and our own interests the aim of life. Life has its serious dem ands upon women as well as up-desires and our own interests the aim of life. Life has its serious dem ands upon/women as well as upon men. There is a mission as solemu for her as for her struggling brother.

The modern Orpah is a delicate tyrant, adorned with costly fabries, lounging upon damask and brecade while the heavy hearted mother drags her weary feet from nursery to kitchen, from kitchen to laundry, and the rather labors far into the night to gain the means which are demanded by her extravaganess. She is an incubus, a dead weight in the world's great progress, a fair weed amidst the fragrance and utility of the garden of life. She fulfills no purpose, accomplishes no good, attains the reputation of "a splendid woman" and dies and is forgotten. Turn to her religious side. There are to her no awful truths in God's law. She would rather dance than pray. Queen of the ballrom, no humble prayer circle knows her penitential presence.

It is for this reason, said the speaker, that I up-humble prayer circle knows net pentential pasence.

It is for this reason, said the speaker, that I uplift my voice against the modern dance. I am not inimical to the pleasures of youth. I am not opposed to the modern dance for fanatical reasons. I would be fearful of accusing the dance of besmirching the purity of woman, and I do not think it paves the way to crime. My charge against it is that it confirms a deadness of lite and neart; that it writes "frivolous" upon the white brow of womanhood; that there is no God in it.

A marble statue may look beautiful, but it is ley A marble statue may look beautiful, but it is cold. And such is the Orpah of to-day, a beauti corpse, decked with wreaths of flowers, yet or galvanized into a glittering mockery. In the midst of this glad and festive seas hope of the eternal inheritance is in being leagued with God.

Remember there is an end. The flowers wither; the last symphony of music fades into an indistinguishable echo; the oil in the littering lamp grows low, the feet of the dancers sink in weariness; the body no more responds to the thrill of delight. And then what! The thunders of a judgment fall upon the ear; the terrible demand comes, "How hast thou spent thy life." Is it possible you can only answer: "In the vain pursuit of phantoms, in the never attainable rush for the gold tinted bubbles of pleasure, amid the whirl and bustle of frivolous extravagance?" Is it thus that you will render up this precious treasure of life, returning to God a wasted existence, a soul that was never disciplined, a body that never blessed! When the black curtain will be lifted, how shall it find you!"

In the evening the most attractive portion of the whole commencement programme was presented. A play, the Lilliput Levec, was readered by the younger scholars. The calisthenic exercises, and attitudinizing were beautifully given and showed careful training. The evening concluded with selections from Mikado by the younger scholars.

Gainesville Methodist College Commence ment.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., June 8.-[Special.]-The GAINESVILLE, Ga., June S.—[Special.]—The Methodist college commencement is progressing. Last Friday the primaries and preparatories were before the public and acquitted themselves with great credit to their teachers. Sunday the Rev. W. F. Glenn, pastor of First Methodist church of Atlanta, preached the commencement sermon from the text: "I am a stranger in the earth; hide not thy com-mandments from me." Psalms exix, 19. The weather was inclement, but he had a large audience, and delivered one of the finest sermons that has ever been preached here on a like occssion. The people were edified and moved. Frequently as he presented some fine thought or word picture, the people were moved to tears. He is a fine preacher, and First church may well be proud of him. Entertainments, etc., by the advanced students are advertised for tonight and tomorrow night. Wednesday Mr. W. P. Hill, of Atlanta, is to deliver the literary address, and the exercises close with conferring degrees.

Andrew Female College.

CUTHEERT, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of Andrew female college were inaugurated on Thursday evening last by the sppearance of the intermediate class of little boys and girls in a number of choice selections well rendered before an appreciative andience. On Friday night the academic de partment gave a si milar exhibition of a pleas ing character. On Sunday morning last a large audience gathered at the Methodist church to hear the commencement sermon from Rev. McK. F. McCook, of Fort Valley. The speaker chose a very interesting theme and carried his hearers along with him through the labyrin-thian paths of Biblical lore, and proved such an interesting and forcible speaker that he kept the attention of all chained to the subject under discussion. He made a fine impression upon our people as a young minister of lare ability. The exercises at the college rare ability. The exercises at the college during the week will be of a very interesting nature. A programme for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday has been arranged, sparkling and Wednesday has been arranged, sparating with promises of brilliant literary and musical feasts. On Wednesday morning a number of young ladies receive their diplomas, and the annual literary address will be delivered by Rev. J. W. Lee, of Atlanta. Much is expected in the coming address of Mr. Lee, as he has preceding him a considerable reputation as one of the finest speakers in the state. Andrew college is in a flourishing condition numbering at present considerably over an hundred young ladies and misses. It has been recently improved and refitted by the president, Rev. H. W. Key, at a considerable xpense, and is at present one of the prettiest female colleges in Georgia. THE PROGRESS OF THOMAS.

Cheering Reports from the Farmers-Improvement in the City. THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 8 - [Special.]-The cane crop of this county is generally very large and a yield of three hundred gallons of syrup to the acre is not unusual. It is probable that five thousand gallons of pure cane syrup is made every year in Thomas county. It is shipped to all points in the United States. Northerners here in the winter are very fond

The extreme cold of last winter killed and damaged a great deal of the cane that had been banked for seed and all of the roots which were left in the ground and which are generally counted on strongly by cane plant-ers for a second crop were ruined. In conse-quence the supply of seed cane this year was small and badly damaged, and of course the

Just two miles from the courthouse can be seen two of the largest strawberry farms in the state. The LeConte pear syndicate has thirty acres or more in this delicious fruit, and one of the smaller growers daily brings 100 quarts to market. They are selling now at 10 cents a quart, but they will not remain much longer at this price, as the season for the strawberry is fast drawing to a close. Present indications point to very successful crops this year in southwest Georgia. The weather has been seasonable so far, and corn and cotton are growing facely.

There is more corn and less cotton planted here this year than for 10 years past. Several farmers who have heretofore been large cotton planters have expressed a determination not to plant another acre in cotton, and there is certainly a revolution among our farmers in that direction this year among our farmers in that direction this year.

Negotiations are on foot for building a fluo opera house. One is sadly needed here and unless it is built by next season our city will not be visited by good trups. This is a great theater poing place, and a creditable play is as much patronized here as in any city of its size in the state. There are several buildings which the state. There are several buildings which with little work and small cost, could be con verted into an opera house which would fill the present demand. It is hoped work will b commenced at once. A crowd of young peopl presented Pinafore at the city hall a few days ago very creditably. The performance will be repeated this week. Several your gladies and gentlemen of this place possess strong dramatic talent, and it i easy to get up a very good amateur performance here at any time.

A good theatrical troupe that visited here last winter offered very tempting inducement to a prominent society young lady of Diwson street to accept a leading role in their play The offer was promptly rejected.

Dougherty's New Bridge. ALEANY, Ga. June 8.—[Special.]—Dougherty county commissioners, after several years litigating and fineesing with Colonel Tift about the sale of his bridge, and his right to keep it up as a toll bridge, resolved at a meeting held ast Friday to creet a free bridge across the Flint about one and a half miles below the city. The right of way was secured, and the work will probably soon be commenced. This bridge will prove a great benefit to Albany as it will at once secure for the city a very large trade from Mitchell and Worth, which the toll bridge drives elsewhere. The abundant toll bridge drives elsewhere. The abundant rains we are having are bringing out the crops wonderfully all around. The market gardeners already complain of too much. Their melon vines are doing finely. The only drawback so far, is the scantiness of the cat crop.

Oglett.orpe Granite in Demand. LEXINGTON, Ga., June S.—[Special.]—The granite used in building our courthouse has been in great demand lately from a distance. Mr. McCurdy has an order for two carloads in the rough to be shipped to Atkens. has an order for a number of carloads to be sent to Augusta. The bases made from this granite to the tower of the courthouse have ust been finished, being considered the bas Just teen insined, being considered the best and prettiest work yet done. They are four feet square by two feet high, with ovai top. There is not a blemish about them, and reflects great credit on the workmen, Messrs. Jasper Goddard and Hugh Hastings.

Summer Amusements. SAVANNAH, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—St. John's temperance amusement club has just been organized by the election of T. B. Cath. president; M. O'Connell. They will arrange for a series of entertainments to night.

The Ford Dramatic association opened the summer season to a brilliant audience to-night with the play "Led Astray." The presentation was a grand success.

Killed by Lightning.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]— Late yesterday afternoon a thunder storm came up, and in the midst of quite a heavy rain the lightning flashed and struck around quite lively. A negro man working over the river at Vinson's, was struck and killed by the lightning. His body was brought into the city last night.

A Boy Drowned.

ATHENS, Ga. June S.—[Special.]—A little negro boy was drowned at Mr. Lucius Pittman's mill pond, in Madison county, Monday. The boy was in a boat and rowed it up to the bank, and as he went to step out the boat pushed back and threw him in the pond. He was drowned before assistance could reach him. drowned before assistance could reach him.

Tom Grier's Sentence. ATHENS, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—Tom Grier has served out his six months sentence, and is out looking like his confinement has not hort him much. Grier was sent up for opening a letter belonging to a young lady, while route agent on the G. J. and S. railroad.

A Queer Egg.

From the Calhoun, Ga., Courier. Mr. E. B. Cook, showed us this week, a curosity in the shape of an egg, that was a very remarkable freak of nature. The egg measur ed ten inches in length and when broken was found to contain another well developed fally shelled egg. The enterprising hen that laid this remarkable egg, did so at the expense of her life. She had been engaged just a week in producing this egg, and its final appearance in the nest, probably from its great size, made her think no doubt, she had produced a monstrosity, and so frightened her that she died

A QUESTION ABOUT Brown's Ivon Bitters

ANSWERED. The question has probably been asked thousands of times. How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything? Well, it doesn't But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician vorid prescribe 1210. Physicians recognize Luvi as the best restorative agent known to the Drofession, and includy of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the averetion leading chemical firm will substantiate the severance that there are more operations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that from is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S HIGH ZITTERS no perfect variationly iron coubstantiates had ever been found.

BROWN'S IRON BY TERS the teeth, cause headache, or produce constitution—all other iron medicines do. General Anderson.

"Theu, I will read from the section," said Mr. Brown, and he read:
Section II. And be it further enacted, that said lessees shall never charge a higher rate of local freights on said road than the average rate charged by the Georgia Railroad and Banking company, and the Macon and Western railroad company for like local freights over said roads. And said company shall have the same exemptions, privileges, immunities, rights and guarantees, and shall be subject to the same liabilities, disabilities and public burdens of said railroad companies last mentioned, and no more, in all cases where this act is silent and has made no provision on the subject: Provided, this act shall not be construed to confer banking privileges on said company. "Now," said Mr. Brown, "I think we have the right to chiect to unwarrantable interference.

"Now," said Mr. Brown, "I think we have the right to chiect to unwarrantable interference. I have a large number of affidavits here. Some of them have not been filed on account of my illness. I want to meet this question badly, and don't want anyone to say that the road has taken undue advantage. The local freight tariff is fixed by the state. This is the grand necessities competition have forced upon us, and all is our—"

Atterney Anderson—"The railroad commission has a right to fix the rates from the Ohio

sion has a right to fix the rates from the Ohio liver, or from anywhere else."

"They must fix just rates," replied Mr.

Brawn. "And who is to be the judge of that?" asked the judge.

"This is the only way we have of paying the rental. We have kept the contract with force is." "We do not admit that," said Attorney An-

have violated it. The lessees are not all evidently of Georgia. The ressees are not an evidently of Georgia. The rates are not less than reasonable and just. They are what the commissioners think are such."

"The contract," said Mr. Brown, "says in no case shall we be disturbed by authority of the state. The courts have no power to alter the contract. The courts have no power to alter the contract. The courts have no power to alter the contract. The courts have no power to alter the contract. contract. The commissioners can't bind us down to it. All successful railroad men fix their own rates."

their own rates."

Mr. Brown spoke at some length. He reviewed the lease of the road, and flatly denied that the commission had any power whatever to interrupt the road in its management, "that by its contract of lease, so made with the state of Georgia, that its right to make rates, and control its said railroad, so leased from the state of Georgia, cannot be controlled by the state of Georgia either directly by its legislature or by an officer, or agency, state of Georgia either directly by its legisla-ture or by an officer, or agency, or commission appointed by the state of Georgia without impairing the obligation of its said contract with the state of Georgia. And your orator avers that so long as it does not charge a higher rate on local freights on said road than the average rate charged by the Georgia Railroad and Ranking company and the Central Railroad Banking company, and the Central Railroad and Banking company, and the Macon and Western railroad company for like local freights over said roads, at the date of its said reights over said roads, at the date of its said contract to lease, to wit, December, 27, 1870, that it cannot be made liable of accountable to any person or party whatever."

Attorney-General Anderson argued that the first point was jurisdiction. He believed that the state had jurisdiction. The state simply granted to the road peaceable and quiet possession, but it did not mean for the road to charge just such toll or rates as they desired. session, but it did not mean for the road to charge just such toll or rates as they desired, or so long, as they kept the contract, on their part, and make the payments when due. He spoke at some length regarding the power of the road to make and control the rates. He believed the power laid in the railroad comnission. He cited several laws of exactly the same nature in other states.

Flemington, N. J., Oct. 31, 1855.

Das, Starkey & Palen—Dear Sirs: Your letter under the date of October 25th came to hand last evening, and I hasten to reply.

I am sorry you felt it needful to ask "permission" to do a thing so obviously right, and a thing that I am myself doing at every favorable opportunity, viz: state for the benefit of other sufferers what Compound Oxygen has ther sufferers what Compound Oxygen has done for me.

You certainly and most cheerfully have my unqualified permission to use any information concerning my case that you have, or that I what it did for me is so remarkable that it what it did for me is so remarkable that it is with diffidence I tell the whole truth, except where I am well known.

During the war, at the battle of Fredericksbug, a mine ball went crashing through my spine lengthwise, passing, the surgeons said, as close to spinal cord as it could and not sever it. Inflammation, was only kept down by it. Inflammation was only kept down by treatment with ice in Washington for a month fterwards.

By spel's since, and sometimes for about a By spells since, and sometimes for about a year together, the suffering has amounted to extreme agony, so great that insanity, it seems, must have been the result had I not been quieted with morphine before I got the compound Oxygen. The list "pull" I had and I had them at intervals of about two years) ended with the use of Compound Oxygen in the summer of Iss2.

The day the Compound Oxygen came I was not able to sit up to have my bed made, so sat up in bed to inhale, and thought as I did so "seld again, this will amount to nothing."

However, determined to follow directions, I inhaled again in the evening, and instead of

However, determined to follow directions, I inhaled again in the evening, and instead of six doses of morphine that evening, as on the evening before, I only took one small dose, and slept more than usual and better. The next night took no morphine and slept good eight hours, and in less than a week I rode out in a carriage two or three miles, and in leas than two weeks walked—on crutches—a quarter of a mile at a time.

Like most of all who get up feeling "so good," but whose judgment is as feeble as the body, I would over-do and get down, but I would get up almost as soon. These downs and ups covered a space of perhaps three months, since which time I have not been confined to the bed nor the house for a day; but months, since which time I have not been confired to the bed nor the house for a day; but of course an injury so great is a permanent one. Of such a nature is the injury, that at times (more likely after a spell of writing) any person standing close to me when I turn my head slowly, can hear a grating sound similar to that produced by rubling a knife on a whetstone. Of course such a mangling and tearing of the nerves centering (do they not?) along the snine leaves, we in a constantly enalong the spine leaves me in a constantly en-fecbled condition, but when the brain feels strained and the nerves sensitive, a few days' acc of the Compound Oxygen brings back (has very time so far, an increase of vitality, and all the health that can be put into a body that has been so harshly handled, and much more than you doctors encouraged me to hope for when I asked your advice concerning it. I regard Compound Oxygen as nature's strong right hand for repairing bodily waste and

Triplets Twice in About a Year.

From the Georgetown, Mass , Advocate. A little more than a year ago we recorded A little more than a year ago we recorded the fact that Mrs. George Poore, of West Newbury, gave birth to triplets—two boys and a girl. The girl lived but a short time after birth, and the boys grew healthy and strong and are alive and well teday. Now we have the pleasure of recording an exact repetition of the circumstance. This week triplets were again, born to them—two boys and a girl. The girl breathed a short time and died; the boys are as strong as infants at that age can be expected. The mother is doing well with her four boys, the eldest of which is but a trifle over a year.

The petition showed "that there exists in the state of Georgia an association of railway companies, known as the Southern Railway and Steamship association; that all the rai road companies in said state belong to said association, and that the chief object of said association is to defeat competition in the business of carrying. AN IMPORTANT CASE.

DECISION IN THE RAILROAD COM-

MISSION CASE TODAY.

The Argument Presented by Mr. Julius Brown Yes-

Takes Beld Stant for the Commission— The Merits of the Case, Etc., Etc.

The application of the Western and Atlan of Georgia from enforcing the decisions made in the case of J. N. Dunn, Aaron Haas, et al.,

alleging discrimination, was yesterday hear tic railroad to restrain the railroad commission by its agents appointed at these meetings, fixes the rate of charges for hauling freights of every character, within a prescribed territory, and the express object of making said rates by said association or its agents is to "maintain association of its agents to maintain rates." in other words to lessen competition. By virtue of this agreement a certain per cent of all carnings for carrying freights, is to be divided between all the roads pro rata, and the balance in certain proportions according to the amount hauled. Petitioner charges that this method of making rates is a palpa-ble violation of the constitution and laws of Georgia, and is done in defiance of both.

Georgia, and is done in defiance of both.

Petitioner further charges that the rates made as above stated discriminate unjustly against him. By table No. 1 it appears that 10 cents per hundred pounds is charged according to the rates of said association for the distance letween Chattanooga and Atlanta, and only 12 cents to Augusta, considerably more than double the distance; and to Savannah more than three times as far from Chattanooga as Atlanta is, the rate is six cents per hundred pounds. Table No. 2 shows the orobundred pounds. Table No. 2 shows the proportion of the rates received by Western and Atlantic railroad company and the East Teacassee, Virginia and Georgia railroad coupany, and that said companies are discriminating most ruinously against petitioner in violation of their charters as well as of the constitution and laws of the state.

I Table No. 3 represents another phase of the glaring discrimination against petitioner resulting from the illegal rates of said pooling association. Petitioner charges that the rates mentioned are in violation of rule 6 of the commission. But if petitioner is mistaken in this, then he most respectfully asks that this commission will make such rule in the premises as will enforce the laws of the land and protect petitioner against these ruinous discrimina favor of merchants in the same business in Augusta, Athens, Macon and Savannah are greatly detrimental to him and almost ruin-ous to his business.

I In consideration of the premises, petitioner

1 In consideration of the premises, pertubular prays that this honorable commission, through whom alone he can ask redress of his grievances, will take steps as required by sections 8 and 9 of the act of 1879 to enforce the penalties of the law against said railroads and established. pecially against the Western and Atlantic railroad company and the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad company, that rule six of this commission may be enforced and that such other rules may be made and enforced by this commission as may be necessary in compliance with the laws under which this commission is acting to secure the rights of this petitioner as a shipper of freights upon said railroads."

The commission did not take action upon the petition, except to notify the officials of the Western and Atlantic road to appear before them on the 30th day of March last. The road entered a demurrer, claiming that no just cause had been fully set forth, and did not show where they had been injured or damaged, and that should the railroad comnot show where they had been injured or damaged, and that should the railroad commission hold that they have any jurisdiction over respondent concerning said matters com-plained of, that they, require each of said pe-titions to amend said petitions, and set forth fully and in detail their causes of complaint, and make all parties, including the other rail-reads, and also the other communities, cities or towns complained of, parties thereto, so that the railroad company could make answer thereto.

The demurrer further added that the commission had no jurisdiction over their rates and charges made upon inter-state commerce, and that contract made and entered into with the state of Georgia, the lessee from the state of Georgia of said Western and Atlantic railroad and that it holds and operates said railroad under its said controct, the terms of which are in the statute laws of this state, and insist that until it is shown by a proper petition setting forth fully and in detail, that the rates, toils and charges made by respondentary rates, toils and charges made by respondent are greater than those permitted by its contract of lease with the state of Georgia, and greater than those charged by the railroads named in call lease. said leasing statute at the time of its passage, and at the time of said lease, and greater than the state of Georgia then operating said railroad charged that neither the railroad commission of Georgia, nor the commissioners composing the same, nor the state of Georgia its legislature, or any official of the state, heavy power or control over its said rates, sor charges, and that any law, or rule or regulation attempting to control or intefere with the same, is unconstitutional, null and void, as impairing the obligation of respondents' said contract, and respondents' rights under the same.

The commission overruled the demurrer, and the commission overruled the demurrer, The commission overruled the demurrer, and the case was set for a hearing on its merits on Tue-day, 25th of May, 1886.

The application for injunction was carried before Chief Justice Waite, who granted a temporary injunction, and ordered that the defendant show cause before Judge Pardee in New Orleans on 22d of May, 1886, why a permanent injunction should not be granted.

The Fulton Democracy Speaks. The democratic citizens of Fulton county put on record their answer to the slanderers of General Gordon.

It is well known that the Bacon men strained every nerve to carry Fulton. They es tablished headquarters, organized commit tees and went into systematic campaigning. They combined all the anti-Gordon elements and by putting forth a ticket, unpledged except as between Bacon and Gordon, made a bid for the friends of other possible candidates. The ticket itself was made up of eighteen gentlemen selected for their personal strength with various classes, including five Knights of Labor. The members of the ticket made a personal canvass of the city. All these things gave the Bacon men great kopes of earrying Fulton against Gordon. The Macon Telegraph two weeks ago predicted that Fulton would be put in the list of Bacon counties. In its issue of Tuesday it claimed that 600 Bacon men were at the Gordon meeting of Monday night, and 1,200 more Bacon men were in another meeting at the same time organizing for the next day'

General Gordon's majority is 1,500. It might just as easily have been 2,500. The friends of Gordon kept close watch of the polls, and there was no hour of the day when the vote was not steadily and openly four to one in his favor. Knowing this, hundreds of Gordon men failed to vote. Had the unpledged ticket shown the slightest evidence of strength, it would have been buried under the ballots of 5,000 Gordon men. Indeed, in the morning the vote was steadily six or eight to one for Gordon. This lessened the activity of the Gordon men and most of them left the polls.

The result is a glorious one. It is the answer that Fulton makes to the little mass meeting intrigues. Here is a primary elec tion, ordered by Gordon's friends. And by a majority of 1,500, in a vote of four to one, the staunch democrats of Fulton rebuke Gordon's slanderers put down his opponents and align the good old county in his column.

General Gordon and the People.

Dr. Felton, in his letter which we printed yesterday, charges that we are going behind dead men to attack him. The attack is in the doctor's imagination entirely. THE Constitution is not attacking him at all It is simply engaged in reminding the people of this state that in 1882, four years ago, he was asserting in the public prints that the late Senator Hill was mendacious and corrupt, just as he is now asserting that General Gordon is corrupt.

The difficulty with both of these distinguished gentlemen, one dead and the other living, is that they have devoted a good deal of their time and attention to building up the democratic party of the state and to holding its lines intact against all assaults. They were opposed to Dr. Felton in his attempts to demoralize and disorganize the party, and out of this opposition has grown the passionate and reckless epithets which Dr. Felton has seen proper to bestow on them in the course of his various controversies.

Dr. Felton takes occasion once and again to remind us that Senator Hill is dead. This is true. It is a fact known and deplored by every Georgian, and by every man in the country who admires statesmanship and patriotism. Mr. Hill is indeed dead, but the marble statue recently unveiled in this city is a mute but eloquent testimonial to the estimation in which his memory is held. He is dead, but, being dead, he lives as an example for the young men of this and future generations. He died beloved and lamented, but does any one believe that his memory would be fresh in the hearts of his people today if, as Dr. Felton boldly declared in 1882, he had been guilty of meadacity and corruption?

Dr. Felton will observe that we are no attacking him, as he claims. We are simply comparing his charges against General Gor don with his charges against the great Georgian who so aptly illustrated the south in his life and in his character. Mr. Hill did not believe in Dr. Felton's so-called independent movement, nor did he believe in its natural culmination, a coalition with the leading white republicans. Denouncing this coalition with the vehemence of his ardent and patriotic nature, Senator Hill at once became the target of Dr. Felton's epithets. But what effect did these epithets have: Did the people of Georgia believe that Mr. Hill was mendacious and corrupt because Dr. Felton declared him to be so? To ask that question is to answer it. There is not a man in Georgia today (with the possible exception of Dr. Felton) who believes that Mr. Hill was either mendacious or corrupt. On the contrary, they believe that he was a man whose integrity and patriotism was equal to all tests.

Dr. Felton tells us that Mr. Hill is dead, and in the next breath quotes what Mr. Stephens said of General Gordon. Perhaps we should remind Dr. Felton that Mr. Stephens is also dead. There is no doubt that there was at one time some feeling between Mr. Stephens and General Gordon, and this fact is to be taken into account. There was also some feeling between Mr. Hill and Mr. Stephens, a feeling which resulted in a bitter newspaper controvesy, in the course of which Mr. Stephens said harder things of Mr. Hill than those which Dr. Felton quotes against General Gordon. The controversy was so bitter and personal that the whole state protested against it, but the people maintained their love and their respect for the participants. In other words, they accepted the controversy for what it was worth, and no more.

Our opinion is that Dr. Felton is disposed to make somewhat too much of his scrap books. The people cannot be made to share in his animus against General Gordon any more than they could be made to share in his animus against Mr. Hill. They do not believe that General Gordon is a thief and a corruptionist any more than they believe that Mr. Hill was a thief and a corruptionist. Nothing that Dr. Felton can say or do will alter their attitude. They need no scrap book quotations to refresh their memories as to the attitude of those who were attempting to save Georgia from the results of an independent republican coalition. Taking Them on the Sly.

Major Bacon still continues to yank county out under the fence once in awhile. On Monday he got Liberty and Montgomry counties. We presume he would have gotten them any how. But the manner of his getting them is peculiar. None of the newspapers, not even his own organs, knew they were going to act. Lists of counties whose committees had called meetings were published in papers on both sides. In none of these lists is Liberty or Montgomery to be found. On a certain quiet day, however, it is announced that little meetings have held in these counties, cover, some time been and delegate sound mind annother appointed a cycrything selected. The same is true of Clinch county. And the same is true of Pickens. All of which were fixed up for Bacon, and were delivered to him.

This little game is about played. Mr. Bacon has pulled mighty near the last of the unripe fiuit. Hereafter he will be caught before he begins to shake the tree.

Mr. Tubbs and "Our Tobe." Our readers in Georgia have not forgotter Tobe Jackson. There was a time when Tobe seemed to rise superior to all the statutes, courts and sheriffs of the state. Warrants couldn't be served upon him. No posse comitatus could arrest him. Bloodhounds bayed fiercely on his trail, only to lie down at his feet, subdued by the man's magnet

Tobe is not a man to be easily forgotten. We have not forgotten him here, and out in Texas his name will do to conjure with. It will be recollected that some weeks ago Tobe was arrested at the instance of a Mr Tubbs, who resides near Reagan, Texas After the prisoner was forwarded to Georgia where he finally arrived in a purely voluntary manner, much to the perplexity of the people and the bedevilment of those who had him in charge, Mr. Tubbs felt relieved. He had been informed that Tobe had sworn vengeance against him, but as the weeks slipped by he came to the conclusion that these threats were harmless. A few days ago Tubbs received a shock. He got a letter postmarked Cartersville, Georgia, advising him that three of Tobe's friends were enroute to Texas to dispose of him. The letter was signed "A Christian Lady," and the postscript stated that while the writer was a friend of Tobe Jackson, she felt that she would be a party to Tubbs's assassination unless she warned him of his immediate danger.

This epistle created consternation in the Tubbs family. Neighbors were consulted. and the entire community slept with one eye open. The other day three strangers, sup posed to be desperadoes from Georgia, made their appearance, inquiring for Tubbs. The Texan was given a timely hint by his friends, and he at once made his way to Waco, where, at last accounts, he was making arrangements for the arrest of all suspicious looking strangers in his bailwick. It s quite possible that there is a mistake somewhere, but Georgians traveling in Texas will do well not to prowl around Reagan until they receive assurances that Tubbs's equanimity has been entirely restored. In the meantime, by way of throwing ofl on the troubled waters, we feel disposed in behalf of Mr. Tobe Jackson to discredit the report connecting him with any hostile designs upon Texas in general or Mr. Tubbs in particular. Having thus discharged our duty to a rather prominent citizen of our state, we dismiss the matter until further developments.

An Appeal to the People. The defeat of the Gladstone ministry on the second reading of the home rule bill will surprise only a few. It has been evident for some time that Chamberlain's desertion of the liberal cause would give the opponents of home rule a majority. Many of Mr. Gladstone's followers claim that they are not dissatisfied with the result. In the long run it may work to the advantage of the home rule party.

This great question must now be passed upon by the people, and if Mr. Gladstone' strength does not fail him we may expect to see one of the most notable campaigns of the age. The accession of the tories to power would settle nothing. They would find themselves confronted by about half the commons under the combined leadership of Gladstone and Parnell. The tories would be forced to bring forward a home rule measure of their own, and it is safe to say that it would stand no chance of success unless it embraced the essential points of the bill just defeated.

The position of English political parties was never more interesting and critical than at the present moment, but if the signs of the times mean anything, the Parnellites will escape the general wreck, and, sooner or later, secure what they have so bravely and resolutely contended for.

Why We Have Cyclones. In this country the forests have been detroyed without making any provision for renewing them. Cyclones, during the last quarter of a century, have been frequent and destructive.

In South America there is a vast area of land as level at our western prairies. Yet there are no cyclones in that region. All along the Amazon stretches a country so monotonously flat as to afford the fullest possible scope for the formation and sweep of the mightiest cyclones. What causes this mysterious exemption from the visits of the storm king?

The theory of modern scientists is that the Amazon region escapes cyclones because it is the most heavily timbered tract in the world. Instead of ascending currents of heated air, there is ascending moisture from the trees and verdure. In the future, when civilization strips the country of its forests, leaving a vast desert plain, cyclones will be as common as they are in our western states.

If there is anything in this theory, and there is little reason to doubt it, the best thing we can do is to devote some attention to forestry. The arbor days instituted in some of the states are steps in the right direction, but we need thoroughly organized action. We have reached a point where the replanting of our forests on a large scale is an absolute necessity.

"THE Chronicle does not want the Bacon men to follow the Gordon men in all of their methods," says Statesman Walsh. Well, we should suppose not. This reckless way of going directly to the people would be very embarrassing to the Bacon men.

THE result in Fulton shows what would have been the result of primary elections in the state. The people should have a chance to designate their choice.

STATESMAN WALSH Says: "THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION will note that the Chronicle has never yet charged General Gordon with pargain and sale in connection with his office of U. S. senator." This is true. But as this is the basis of the Bacon campaign, Statesman Walsh ought to be for Gordon.

THE Macon Telegraph appears to be prejudiced against brass bands. Why so?

Joe Howard went to church Sunday and heard Beecher-the first sermon of the great Brooklyn divine since the report of Beecher's death. This is what Howard says of the preacher's personal appearance:

The great organ sounded, the perspiring ushers looked in despair for an extra seat, the policemen at the door instructed the waiting crowds that the entry way alone was at their disposal. The solemn tolling of the bell gave notice that the hour of services was approaching. A little stir on the outer circles of the crowd, a parting among the peo ple and the parson enters, stepping carefully among the old ladies and the children on the teps leading to the platform. I took him in from op of his silver-crowned head to the sole of his heel. The blood of health comped in every vein. The fire that has orned vividly and conspicuously through hree quarters of a century danced and sparkled n his great blue eyes. His long, handsome hair whitening as the years roll on, was brushed back from an ample forehead, and fell gracefully on his shoulders, on his stout, thick, manly shoulders. How at home he was! Perfect composure domi nated the situation, and as he looked forward, up ward and far around on either side of him, he saw whole families—great grandparents, grandparents, fathers and mothers, children—four generations easily in many a family pew. He had been invied by the one to come and preach in Brooklyn He had married these, had baptized the other and now other crops loomed up with fair little heads peering just above the railing of the pew, their feet standing insecurely on slippery cushion while they looked at the venerable and the venerated pastor of the flock. According to Professor Guttenbergers of Macon, a brass band is a good thing. professor knows what he is talking about.

Brass bands are very nice in a campaign when they are furnished by the people. During the war they were even more useful than they are now.

"ARE all the bills paid in Atlanta?" asks Statesman Walsh. Well, the people of Atlanta pay their bills as a general thing. Are all the ills paid in Augusta?

THE second volume of the posthumous works of Victor Hugo was published a few days ago. It is entitled "La Fin de Latan," and has been concunced one of the highest conceptions of the author. The poem is incomplete and whole parts are lacking. Literary people who have examined it say it would have been the poet's greatest work if he had finished it. The parts that have been secured were written between 1854 and 1860, when Hugo was enjoyiug the full strength of his intellectual power. The poem begins in Heaven and descends to earth, where it recounts the first days of creation, the flood, the life and death of Christ, and then enters upon a description of the French revolution-the unfinished part. In the poem Hugo makes God pardon the devil. description of the deluge is very fine, and the description of the life and death of Christ is a masterpiece.

THE Bacon organs pay quite a high tribute to the people when they say that "General Gordon's managers in Atlanta are still engaged in lassoing counties."

The Newarkites thought the anarchists were about to level the city to the ground. It turned out the mysterious signs were used by the Knights of Labor to advertise meetings. The design is a right angle with figures that denote the number of the month, day of the month and hour of meeting ranged along the hypothenuse. The number of the assembly appears at the bottom.

He was compelled to fiee to this country to escape punishment. About a year ago the doctor's third wife leoped with George Bessendrof. The couple aferward blew each others brains out in Central park. A short time after this double suicide Koch heard that his old flame in Germany had married a man named Muehlenbach and that the man had gone to Mexico, and after living there or four years had amassed a fortune and gone back to enjoy it with his wife; that shortly after he had arrived in Germany he had died, and left everything to his wife. It is a little old wcodeen building, one story and a half high the ground floor being used for a printing office and the half story above for a livin anatiment. When she saw how she had been deceived, Mrs. Muchienbach made a big first, an Dr. Koch confessed that he had done some talying and had got her to come over to this courtry because she was rich and he wanted he money. Mrs. Muchienbach explained tha her husband had returned from his Mexical trip very wealthy, but had lost all of his fortune in speculation. This surprise and amazed Koch. They made the best of spiller milk, however, and Mrs. Muchienbach stayed a Dr. Koch s house until four days ago, when she and Koch had a quarrel, and a hair pulling match followed. This was smoothed over, and Mrs Muchienbach says that about an hour afterwarh he officred her a glass of wine. She did not fee like drinking it, and he gave it to her daughte Mary. All eyes were on Tumlin as the speaker turned to him and pointing at him asked:

"Where is Liverpool, sir?" Tumlin set undisturbed and answered sneering smile, but with a sneering tured no further response. "Ah!" continued the speaker, turning to the audience, "he don't know. Now I leave it to you to say whether or not your representative in congresshould know the situation of Liverpool!"

This seemed a clincher and Styles sat down with an air of triumph. As he passed Tumlia i is said that the latter remarked to him, sotto vo Styles, I think that was d-n mean; youknow I ain't no geologist." But it came Tumlin's time to reply and he was equal to the occasion. He scorned the imputation that he did not know where Liverpool was, an rocceded to locate it, to the swisface audience. "But." said t would make no difference if I didn't k There is one thing that I do know, and that is people and my district. Now, I leave it to you to say whether it is best to elect a man who knows all about England and nothing about his district or one who knows every cow path in the district and every creek that should be cleaned by congressional appropriation. The victory was Tumlin's. He had carried the day and his triumphant election followed. History says that the old Cherokee district was well represented in congress during his term. Donnie Bain, of Atlanta, is one of the cleverest ellows in the world, notwithstanding the fact that he gets a little wild sometimes on politics. Until recently he has interested himself and his friends by drawing an imaginary line across the state from Columbus to Augusta, and claiming that gordon would not carry three counties south of this line.

Let's see what has been done. Sixteen counties located south of this political equator have acted: Of these, five-Quitman, Dodge, McIntosh, Camden and Coffee-rushed their conventions in Bacon's interest and chose delegates before Gordon was in the race. Three-Clinch; Montgomery and Liberty-held snap me ings and instructed for Bacon before was known in the state that they were even called to act. These meetings were very select affairs, so much so, that even all the Gorden men in these countles did not know that their presence would have been in order In a blind fright the counties were just rushed through by the Bacon rings. Two me mond and Bibb are recorded for Bacon; and one of these is his home county. One, Charlton, instructed for Simmons against Eacon, and another, Burke, for Jones. This leaves four, Lee, Mitchell, even though they had been previously conceded for Bacon, as they had been called to act by Bacon committees with his other early strongholds. Of the other counties in that section, Gordon will carry more than Bacon, for most of the strongholds of the latter have been hurried through.

Dr. Felton remarked in his Atlanta speech that he admired and respected Hon. Evan P. Howell. This sentiment, coming from a political opponent, is a graceful one, and will be repeated in many breasts in Georgia, whether differing in politics or in personal preferences of candidates from the gentleman named.

Few men who know the genial editor of THE ATLANTA COSSITUTION fail to like him. Personally he is a "jelly, good fellow." He is a loyal friend and an enterprising son of the old state, who has illustrated her in his private and public work. He is a carnest Atlanta man, but, withal, a thorough Georgian. He carries a level head and a kind heart, and a hand "open as day." His admirers are ranged by the hundreds in this state, and his friends count it not against him when the bat boys in The Constitution office, in his absence, fill his campaign columns with such fearful and wenderful things.

THE PRIMARY RESULTS THREE TO ONE IN HIS FAVOR.

General Gordon's Supporters Indifferent Because the County was Safe for Him-Major Bacon's Full Vote Polled-Why Eacon's Vote was Small-Effect of Felton's Speech.

The result of yesterday's primary election in Fulton was to give the county to General John B. Gordon by a large majority.

The polls were opened at twelve precincts.
Of these seven were definitely heard from last night. The other five were not heard from, and will not be until the vote is sent to the executive committee this morning. -The vote of the seven precincts heard from South Atlanta-Gordon, 1,144 Bacon, 339. North Atlanta—Gordon, 556; Bacon, 178. South Bend—Gordon, 58; Bacon, 1. Collins district-Gordon, 23; Bacon, 1.

West End-Gordon, 43; Bacon, 3. Cook's-Gordon, 80; Bacon, 38. East Point-Gordon, 50; Bacon, 0. The precincts yet to be heard from are Peachtree, Buckhead, Oak Grove, Briant's, and Adamsville. These will probably have a total vote of two hundred and fifty, of which General Gordon will get at least two hundred.

The total vote of the precincts heard from was 2,505, of which Gordon received 1,954, and Major Bacon 551. General Gordon's majority was 1,403, or nearly four to one.

A SMALL VOTE. There were several reasons why the vote was small. In the first place, the supporters of General Gordon did not exert themselves to bring out his full strength. The vote in Atlanta opened with from seven to eight to one in favor of General Gordon. This would be, and, in consequence, the supporters of General Gordon were indifferent. They knew that the county was safe for him by a good majority, and they, therefore, made no attempt to [poll the large vote, which could easily have been polled under other circumstances. Only seven carriages were used in Atlanta to convey General Gordon's supporters to the voting places.

While the supporters of General Gordon did not exert themselves in his favor, the supporters of Major Bacon worked vigorously all day. They were at the polls early and remained until they closed. It is reasonable to assert that they polled every vote that their candidate controlled in the county.

During the day eight negroes voted in Atlanta. The proposition to allow others of them to vote was discussed by the leaders upon both sides, and it was agreed that no more of them be allowed to do so. It is proper to add that those that did vote were democrats and have long acted with the democratic party. WHY BACON'S VOTE WAS SMALL,

Previous to the election, it was repeatedly claimed by the supporters of Major Bacon that the vote in his favor would be large. Some of the newspapers that support him claimed a majority for him. It is frankly admitted that if it had not been for one thing, his vote would have been larger, though there never was any doubt that the county would elect delegates that would support General Gordon. It was owing to the speech of Dr. Felton that Major Bacon's vote was so small. Even Major Bacon's supporters themselves unhesitatingly admit that this is true. Dr. Felton's wild abuse of General Gordon, his foolish and bitinsinuations against him, and unequivocal avowal that he would not support him should he be nominated, caused many of the supportshould ers of Major Bacon to refuse to vote at all, or to vote in General Gordon's favor. Two notable instances of conversions to General Gordon on account of Doctor Felten's speech were found in the cases of two prominent merchants of Atlanta. They heard the speech and were disgusted. They could not support a man who had as one of his chief friends a disorganizer, such as Doctor Felton proclaimed himself to be. They therefore voted in favor of General Gordon, and all of their employes followed their example. One more speech in Fulton county by Doctor Felton would have reduced Major Bacon's vote to utter insignifi-

McDuffie for Bacon.

THOMPSON, Ga., June S.—[Special.]—Mc-Duffie county today chose Bacon delegates by a vote of 228 to 122, in a mass meeting held here. The county has always been considered one of the strongest for Bacon in the state, and the result is as both sides expected. Had the vote been left to a primary election, however, it is more than probable that the result would have been different, as most of the farmers of the county were for Gordon, and they did not turn out generally.

After the vote today Hon, Tom, Watson addressed the meeting.

Supposing from the big words spoken, and the unanimous (?) expression of the great Bacon mass meeting, that General Gordon was completely snowed under, I hid myself away and pined in secret. The only paper to which I had access was the great Telegraph, and every time I looked into it I felt worse and worse. not all the good people of Macon, except my humble self, enthusiastic Bacon men?

Finelly I happened to cast my eyes on half sheet of a newspaper in which some groceries had come home. It was part of The Construction of June 2d. I read with wonder that on the day previous nine counties had instructed their delegates to the state convention, and that seven out of the nine had instructed for General Gordon. I rushed out on the streets and the first man I met was one of the number making up the unanimous mass meeting of the 22nd. I was about passing him without a word, and should have done so, but he called to me and asked met I had read the news. I told him I had seen some to doubt whether General Gordon had been so to doubt whether General Gordon had been so go manimously beaten as had been supposed. One word lead to another until I found that he too was a Gordon man, but had been struck by the cyclone at I had been.

Further investigation has disclosed the fact that the bocalled unanimous sentiment for Major Bacon Campaign club, examined the actual condition of faliais and will venture to state the case. I am, Lowever, afraid that an humble individual who mistook at little ring meeting run by one horse lawyers on the considered.

The unanimous mass meeting referred to was, presided over by the editor of the Telegraph, who had his little speech in his coat talls ready to shoot off. This paper has furnished all the ammunition for the campaign that is to rub out General Gordon, and I think you may put down the whole thing as a Telegraph jamboree with some one-horse lawyers holding up the tall.

The editor of the Telegraph stated to the Bacon campaign club, as I am informed, that if they would pay for and distribute fifteen thousand copies, weekly, of his paper that Bacon would be the next governor of Georgia.

I don't think Bacon will be governor this time, or any other time. Do you?

nel Reuben Arnold spoke here on last Saturday. The morning dawned quite unfavorable to a large gathering of the people. The rain began to fall soon aftereight o'clock and continued until near neon. In the heaviest of it Colonel Arnold made his appearance. The people had been gathering in from early morning until about 300 had assembled by the time the hour for speaking arrived, among them quite a large proportion of our aged citizens. Previous to the speaking several persons called on Colonel/Arnold and Captain Newman, who accompanied him, at the Maxwell house. At 11 o'clock the crowd gathered at the court house and Colonel Arnold made his appearance and was introduced to the audience by Colonel A. W. Holcomb in a neat little speech, after which he began his address, taking up the various charges made against Geteral Gordon and successfully refuting them. He defined the positions of General Gordon and Major. Pacon on the railroad commission, the State road lease, the convict lease and the primary election and mass meeting questions, and General Gordon's resignation. The arguments of Colonel Arnold were sound, logical and convincing and were attentively listened to by the audience, who quite frequently applauded the speaker vociferously as he would allude to the gallant services of General Gordon both as a military leader and a statesman. After he had spoken for half an hour, Mr. Sam Jemisou made his appearance. Soon after his arrival, Colonel Arnold proposed to divide time with him, as he was here in the interest of Major Bacon. The proposition was accepted, and Colonel Arnold proposed to divide time with him, as he was here in the interest of Major Bacon. At this point, the speaker's stand was yielded to Mr. Jemison, who, being introduced by Colonel Rolcomb, began his hour's speech, which was composed mainly of three leading features, viz: evading the real issues of the campaign, abusing sid Lewis, of the "Ishmaelite," and quarrelling with "The Constitutions," I pon the last named he was especially bitter, blood curding and demonstrative. He related as an anecdote about the removaled Tennessee an running in advance of his with The Constitution. I pon the last names new as especially bitter, blood curding and demonstrative. He related as an anecdote about the wounded Tennessee an running in advance of his comrades crying out "Tote me somebody," to illustrate the present position of General Gordon. When the editor of the Milton Democrat suggested that General Gordon was so far ahead like the Tennesseean that the gentleman would not be able to overtake and "tote" him. Mr. Jimison turned in a wondrously withering manner upon the editor and said, "I did not know I was in a joint discussion with you," and seeing the editor taking notes he mistook him for The Constitution's reporter. He said he did not care for The Constitution's reporter. He said he did not care for The Constitution's reporter, he then repeated all that he had previously said about The Constitution, and fairly unwound his little spleen until your correspondent didn't know whether it was The Constitution, General Gordon or the supposed reporter he was aiming at.

When his hour had expired he took his seat, and Colonel Arnold again took the speaker's stand—here mest of the Bacon men followed their two leaders, Colonel Simpson and Parris out of the house. Colonel Arnold again took the speaker's stand—here mest of the Arnold resumed the subject, answering every argument offered by Mr. Jimison, and making an earnest, eloquent appeal to the people of Milton county to insist upon a fair hearing in the selection of their delegates to the gubernstorial convention.

It was conceded even by Bacon men that the audience stood at least four to one for Gordon while some put the figure even higher than that It is safe to say that General Gordon would carry this connty before the people more than three to one, if the efection were to come off now, that it will send up a Gordon delegation in spite of the efforts of tricksters who seek to thwart it there is no doubt, that the sentiments of this countr's people will not be voiced.

Why He Changed to Gordon.

Why He Changed to Gordon.

BARNESVILLE, Ga., June 8.-In your Sunchanged from Bacon to General Gordon at the speaking in Forsyth Saturday. You quoted me correctly, but the change was brought about under these circumstances: When the gubernatorial race first opened I was for Judge Simmons against Major Bacon. When General Gordon announced his candidacy, and Judge Simmons retired, I was then for Bacon, for the reason that I believed Gordon resigned his seat in the senate in the interest of Joe Brown, and that his race for governor was at the instance of Brown. I stated my position on the streets of Barnesville, and said if Gordon would tell me with his own lips t at he did not resign in the interest of Joe Brown, and that he was not now making the race for governor at the bidding of Joe Brown, I would support him. I asked General Gordon these questions at Forsyth Saturday, and he said he knew nothing of Brown's appointment to the senate, and, farther, was not running in his interest now; and so, as I have stated before, when these questions were answered satisfactorily I would support him, which I will do.

Respectfully, T. B. Lyons.

Dr. Felten Rebuked.

From the Nashville Union,
The canvass in Georgia between General The canvass in Georgia between General John B Gordon and Major Bacon for the nomination for governor is the most intensely bitter canvass carried on between two democrats that we have read of. Bacon's friends are charging upon Gordon all sorts of crimes and acts of debasement, one of which is cowardice.

Dr. Felton in north Georgia is making himself quite conspicuous in the use of language which reflects only shame on the speaker.

It is gratifying to know that slander is having its effect. By the thousand the people are flocking to Gordon, and he will be triumphantly nominated, and of course elected.

Gordon is the soul of honor and all thas abuse simply shows that he has been man enough to do his duly. This always stirs up the animals.

If there were no other evidence the abuse now heaped on General Gordon shows that he will do to trust.

Almost Solid for Gordon

LEXINGTON, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—The gubernatorial campaign waxes warm. I never saw or heard of so many floppers in my life. The little city of the Glade, in the northeastern part of this county, furnished seven in one day last week. The Salem neighborhood says she will send up an almost solid vote for General Gordon. Carter Holmes, one of the bravest soldiers that marched Holmes, one of the bravest soldiers that marched and fought through the valley of Virginia, says he will leave this county if Gordon is defeated here, and that if defeated in the state he will emigrate to another state. We told him that it would not be necessary to leave this county or state, that there were 100,000 people in Georgia that thought just like he did.

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga., June 8 - [Special.] -General Gordon addressed a large, enthusiastic audience at two this afternoon, prefacing his remarks by a eulogy in glowing terms upon Alexander H. Stephens, which was received with demonstrations indicative of its effect upon the hearts of the people. The courthouse was filled to its utmost capacity. Every part of the county was represented. Taliaferro has before been among the doubtful counties, but will now unquestionably go for Gordon. Many changes were made.

PROGRESS OF THE CAMPAIGN.

son. I have always been a man open to conviction upon any question and try as hard as anyone not to let any prejudice control my better indement. My mind was not fully made up as to how i should vote but was more than half inclined to support Major Bacon because I thought the argument in his favor outweighed that in favor of General Gordon, and so was called a Bacon man. Mr. Jemison did not make it appear so. Hence my great disappointment in his speech, the substance of which was a little wit and humor, not a great deal of sarcam, but lots of anecdotes, most of which were not very decent, and not one scintilla of argument that I could see. I have made up my mind to support Gordon, and I see the drift of popular sentiment in my neighborhood is going that way. Whist Mr. Jemison's personal attack of Governor Smith was not calculated to help Major Bacon any way. Governor Smith has a large and influential family connection in our section that it was calculated to put to thinking, and who though like me, at first inclined to Bacon, will probably now all be for Gordon. Gordon is popular and the people love him, and will forever believe him to be incorruptible. If I mistake not the signs of the times, the people of curcounty and of Heard county think him worthy of gubernatorial honors and I predict they will send delegates that way. There is one thing that you may put in your pipe and smoke, and that is the honest yeomanry of the county are not going to set down on Gordon, and intertents of the old soldiers are for him and all of them will be by the time the primary comes on. There is some tas good in our district as ever pulled a trigger. Harvey Wilkes, in Capitain Ed. Henderson's company, is the Leonidas of Antioch, that did not fall at Thermopyle. Few young men in the last house made more reputation than the junior member from Thomas. Always at his post, ready in debate and firm in his positions, he left his individual impress on the legislation of that period. Mr. McLendon has served the people of the county well and faithfully. They know him of the county well and faithfully. They know him to be able, honest and fearless in the discharge of duty. of the legislature during the late session of that body said:

"No enumeration of the bright, brilliant and promising young men of this general assembly would be made by anyone inside or outside of the body that did not include the Hon. Samuel Guyton McLendon, the representative of the county of Thomas. He has all the qualities of a good legislator. To the highest personal worth of character, accompanied by an uncommon dignity of manner, he adds solid ability, cool judgment and an exceedingly happy style of eloquence. He is a strong and well informed lawyer; he is the master of a fluent and foreible diction; he has a very firm composure on the floor, and that rarest of rare faculties of thinking upon his feet, and is recognized as possessing and always exercising the courage of his convictions.

A Gordon Club in Columbus.

Columbus, Ga., June 7.—[Special.]—A Gordon club was organized in this city last night. Mr. C. R. Redd was elected chairman and Colonel J. F. Iverson secretary. The meeting which was well attended was addressed by Ex-Governor Smith. In the course of his speech he said that Felton in his speech at Montezuma had charged that he (Smith.) had a pecuniary interest in the convict lease. He denounced the statement as a lie. The meeting was also addressed by Colonel lie. The meeting was also addressed by Colonel B A Thornton and Colonel W. T. Revill. The chairman was instructed at his leisure to appoint a campaign committee and a committee to receive General Gordon on the 18th when he speaks here.

Let the Blame Rest Where it Belongs. EDITORS CONSTITUTION:-I see in your valuable paper this morning a statement saying valuable paper this morning a statement saying the track squad, caused a run off near the five mile post on the Western and Atlantic railroad, also a statement saying that the Whitehall street crossing was blocked last night by a freight car jumping the track, caused by insufficiency of spikes in the tiack. In both places I have examined the track and in each place where the cars jumped, I found the track well spiked and in good order.

The Prohibition Count.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 8.—[Special.]—
The prohibition count drags along with snail-like rapidity. This contest has been a sad affair for Baldwin county and ought to be a warning to counties that have as yet not tried the issue. There is no telling what it will cost, and there is a probability of the matter not being settled except by another vote on it. The lawyers are managing to allow to go unchallenged the votes of only such parties who will swear that they are paying taxes on every particle of property they own.

Thieves Getting in Their Work,

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 8. — [Special.]—Sneak thieves are getting in their work. $175, two watches and a ring were stolen from a railroad employed last night. Strelitz's barber shop was entered and robbed about the same time of its tools and all the clothes of one of the barbers taken, and several other minor thefts committed. The police are after the parties.

The Rawley Springs Hotel Burned

Down. HARRISEURG. Va., June 8.—The greater portion of Rawley springs, situated twelve miles west of this place, was burned between 2 and 5 o'clock this morning. The min building, known as the Virginia house, the Washington house, the dining room, kitchen, bakery and store house, with all their furniture, were totally destroyed. The Raltimore bakery and store house, with all their farniture, were totally destroyed. The Baltimore house was saved. The fire is supposed to have originated in the kitchen or bakery. The insurance aggregates $13,000, placed as follows: Portsmouth, Va., company, $1,500 (Georgia Heme, $3,000; Hope, New Orleans, $3,000; Fire Association, Philadelphia, $1,750; Phenix, Procklyn, N. Y., $1,000; Virginia Fire and Maine, $2,750. The insurance was upon all the buildings, including the one left standing. The loss is estimated at $130,000. The springs were to have been opened Thursday. The were to have been opened Thursday. The buildings will not be rebuilt this season. COUNTERFEIT MONEY PASSED. Birminghrm Claims a Den as One of Her

Attractions. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 8 .- [Special.] --This afternoon, a white man entered the restaurant of Mary Griscomb, colored, and asked her the

"I will take this one."
He placed a coin dollar on the counter, grabbed the chenge she gave him, suddenly left, and hurrie I around the corner. The woman discovered that the coin was counterfeit, and rushed after him. He stopped. She said: "You passed a counterfeit and rushed after him."

He stopped. She said: "You passed a counterfet dellar on me."
He said: "If you say so, you are a liar."
She called the police. A crowd collected. The man ran a distance of two blocks, closely followed by Officer Carlisle, who, with the assistance of N. J. Simmons, caught him. He was taken to the city prison. He gave his name as Q. C. Turner, of Hanceville, Ga. He was searched. On his person was another counterfet coin dollar. He said he came to the city from Hanceville, where he lived in the country, and for sometime sold whisky. He claims to have been given the coins in change by a bootblack, but fails to tell who he was. For several days counterfeit coin of all coins in change by a bootblack, but tails to tell who he was. For several days counterfeit coin of all denominations have been in circulation in the city. It is thought a den of counterfeiters infest the mountains about forty-four miles from the city, who make the coin and send them to Birmingham for circulation. About two months to Birmingham for circulation. About two months ago, fifty counterfeit coins, silver half dollars, were passed, on the banks and merchants in the cry. Chief of Police Packard and Capt. Nix say that they will break up the circulation in the city. The coin passed by Turmer is a dangerous one. It is dated 1885, and is well made. It would be readily taken for a good coin.

Prohibition in Mississippi. NEW ORLEANS, June 8 .- A special from NEW ORLEANS, June 8.—A special from Natchez, Miss., says: The local option election to-day passed off quietly. The prohibitionists were defeated in Adams county by a good majority.

A special from Meridian, Miss., says: The election today passed off quietly. The county outside of this city gave a majority of 146 in favor of local option. There was only one voting place in the city, and when the election closed, fully five hundred voters had failed deposit their ballots, being unable to reach the polls.

Woolen Mills Burned.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 8 .- W. C. Harding

STAMFORD, Conn., June 8.—W. C. Harding & Co.'s woolen mills here took fire this evening The building, together with all its contents, was destroyed. Loss, $225,000, on which there is partial insurance. The nearest residence to the mill was saved from destruction only with difficulty. It contained the remains of Hon Joshua H. Ferris, who died at his home here this morning. Three Months in the Pen.

NEW YORK, June 8.-Lawrence Newman, a Second Avenue car conductor, who was indicted for obstructing the street railroad by placing tones on the track, pleaded guilty today, and af-er a severe lecture from the court, was sen-enced to three months imprisonment in the peni-tentiary.

Death of Senator Hampton's Brother Columbia, S. C., June 8.—[Special.]—Colonel Christopher Hampton, brother of Senator Wage Hampton, died here this evening after a long illness. His death was not unexpected.

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 8. — [Special.] — There has been a great deal of sickness in Augusta of late, but it has been chiefly measles and other late, but it has been chiefly measles and other epidemic illness of the season. Dr. E. C. Goodrich, the city physician in charge of the third division, reports 565 cases of illness and 1085 visits made during the month of May. Dr. Foster reported 115 cases and 275 visits, and Dr. Dugas reported 91 cases and 243 visits. The greater number of cases are located in the factory settlement and on the west side.

The Catholics Win.

BRUSSELS, June 8 .-- Elections were held in Belgium today to replace the outgoing members of the chamber of deputies. The Catholics gained eleven seats. The chamber now consists of 97 Catholics and 41 liberals.

Remarkable Escape, John Kuhn, of Lafayette, Indiana, had a own story: "One year ago I was in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave my case up. I finally go so low that our doctor said I could not live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR WM. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS, which benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles. I am now in perfect health having used no other medicine."

Ye southern sons of valiant sires, Ye comrades of the knight Whose name your country's heart inspires With glory and delight.

Behold him stand before us all, A hero without stain, Calling us with honest call-And shall he call in vain?

Are we to dumb forgetfulness So quickly fallen prey That all his gallant deeds for us Like dreams have passed away? Did he not for us shed his blood When souls of men were tried:

And is there anything too good To be to him denied? No, no! thank God in southern breasts Ingratitude dwells not, And he who once our love possessed Shall never be forgot.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

Special to The Constitution.

CHICAGO, June 8—Speculation in wheat was very active again today, but the market was very weak and prices sharply lower. Foreign advices were again unfavorable, quoting dull and easy markets. The decrease in the visible supply was considera-The decrease in the visible supply was considerably less than a majority of operators had anticipated. More rain was reported in a portion of the spring wheat belt, indicating a better outlook for the crop. These conditions caused the market to open in a semi panicky condition. July opened at 78c, rose to 78%c, sold off quickly to 77%c, rose to 73%c, sold off to 76%c, rallied to 77%, closing at 1 o'clock at 77 1-16c. In the afternoon the feeling was again weak, and July closed for the day at 76%c. Considerable long wheat was thrown on the market, and it was rumored that some of the parties prominent in forcing the recent advance had sold prominent in forcing the recent advance had sold ut. The outward tone of the market was one of out. The outward tone of the market was one of great weakness throughout.

Corn held up steadily early, but broke in sympathy with wheat and closed lower.

Oyts were thoroughly excited with shorts buying freely, causing a full advance of ic. The market closed irregular but higher Provisions ruled firm early, but broke of rather

STATE OF GEORGIA, MUSCOGEE COUNTY —By Virtue of the power vested in us under the terms and conditions of a certain deed of trust executed to the undersigned J. Rhodes Browne and A. Illges, trustees, by the Columbus manufacturing company, of Muscogee county, state of Georgia, dated March I, 1884, whereby the said corporation conveyed to us all the property, real and personal, hereinafter described, in trust, to secure the payment of its certain issue of bonds and the interest coupons thereof as in said that deed specified and enumerated (all of which appears duly of record to Mortgage Deed Book "A." folios 367 to 573, March 5, 1884, in the clerk's office of superior court Muscogee county, Georgia and in Record Deeds, volume O O, pages 81 to 88 inclusive, March 22, 1884, office of the probate court in the country of Lee, state of Alabama, and in conformity with the directions and terms prescribed in the resolutions passed by the holders of said bonds, on April 24, 1886, under the authority conferred by said deed of trust.

We will sell in the city Columbus, Muscogee county, Georgia, on the 3d day of August, 1886, between the legal hours of sale, in front of the auction house of F. M. Knowles & Co., on the northwest corner of Broad Street and Tenth (formerly Crawford street,) being the usual place for sheriff's sales in said city of Columbus at public outery, to the highest bidder, for cash, the following described property of the Columbus manufacturing company, to wit: All those lots and parcels of land situated, lying and being; as follows. Fractional section number thryty-five (33), both in fractional section number the county of Muscogee county, state of Alabama. Also the following lots of lands lying and being in the cighth district of Muscogee county, state of Georgia, known as otts number eighty-six (86) and eighty-seven (77) and the west half of lot number seventy-four (74) and fractions numbered nine

The operatives' houses and improvements generally in excellent condition, labor abundant, lands elevated and location of property unsurpassed for health, convenience and economical production—free from the burden of municional taxes paid by all the other Columbus mills, yet within three miles of the city of Columbus and three quarters of a mile of Columbus and Rome railroad. The water power is the finest in the south, controlling and embracing the whole bed of the Chattahooohoe river for the distance of about one mile along the lands of the company, said lands extending along its banks upon the Georgia and Alabama sides of the river. Only a small portion of the water power is required and utilized in running the present mill and the natural fails in the river render but a simple inexpensive dam of logs and plank necessary. This magnificent water power is easily controlled and has a fall of forty-two and a half (12½) feet within three-quarters (%) of a mile. With a comparatively small expenditure upon a new dam, 125,000 (one hundred and twenty-five thousand) spindles with looms in proportion can be driven by this water power. Canital for the exection of 125,000 (one hundred and twenty-five thousand) spindles with looms in proportion can be driven by this water power. Capital for the erection of additional mills and utilization of the immense power now wasted, is all that is needed to make this property the site of a prosperous and populous manufacturing village. The personal inspection of capitalists is invited. Full and satisfactory details will be furnished on application.

Constitution Reporters. A MARRIAGE.—Night before last Mr. Marshall Love, sen of Dr. Wm. Abram Love, was married to Miss Jennie Green. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Howard Crumley.

DISTRICT COURT .- In the United States dis-DISTRICT COURT.—In the United States dis-trict court yesterday James Cunningham, of Oglethorpe county, plead guilty to violating the internal revenue law, and was sentenced te one menth in jail.

Reward Offered.—Governor McDaniel has offered a reward of $150 for the arrest and delivery of John Simmons to the sheriff of Menroe county. Simmons murdered Lewis Mathews, of that county.

Engoving His Rest. - Officer Blakewood, of ENGOVING HIS REST. Other Blakewood, of the favannah police department, is in At-lanta, enjoying his fifteen days' rest. Savan-mah gives every member of the police force fif-teen days' rest every year without stopping salary.

RELEASED .- Fred Cole, the young man who was arrested Saturday night, charged with robbing a man named Barby of a watch, has been relessed. Cole established the fact con-clusively that he had taken the watch only as made the postrait true to life, and many compliments have been paid her.

WILL PLAY TODAY.—The Georgia Champions, Atlanta's colored baseball club, will cross hats with the colored club from Memphis, this afternoon, at Athletic park. The Atlanta club is said to be good ball players, and those who have seen them play say that they can put up a good game. Thompson, the pitcher, can handle a bail quite cleverly.

Decision Reversed.—Vesterday the board of county commissioners held a meeting for the purpose of listening to a protest against the closing up of the old Peachtree road. The board listened to the argument patiently, and when it was concluded it was announced that the decision would be reversed. It is believed that the road will not be closed.

THE BRUNSWICK AND WESTERN.—The Brunswick and Western railroad has decided to accept the assesment of Comptroller General Wright. It will be remembered that that road returned its engines at $40,000, instead of $62,000, the figures of last year. Comptroller General Wright objected to the return, and assessed the engines at the figures of last year.

West Side Clue.—The Westside club will meet at the residence of Mrs. Kidwell, No. 15 Wood street, to-morrow evening, as the guest of Miss Katie Kidwell. An interesting programme has been prepared for the evening, one of the leading features of which will be a pretty charade, in which Misses Bagby and Roberts, and Messrs. Powell, Bell, Connally and Eason will participate.

MEETINGS AT TRINITY.—By the request of the pastor of Trinity church, the Rev. George G. Smith, Sunday school agent of the north Georgia conference, has been holding meetings for the children and young people during the week. These meetings have been very profitable. It is very earnestly desired that all parents who are deeply interested in the religious welfare of their children shall meet at Trinity church at 4 o'clock this afternoon for prayer and consultation, and bring their children shall meet at prayer and consultation, and bring their children with them.

Mrs. Burnett's Death.—Mrs. Kitty Barnett, wife of Colonel John H. Burnett, died at Galveston, Texas, on June 5. She was born in Summerville, Ga., in 1833, and removed to Crockett, Texas, in 1855, and to Galveston in 1870. The remains were interred at Crockett. Mrs. Burnett was a daughter of General John F. Beavers, who died at Crockett in 1866. Shewas married to Colonel Burnett at her father's home in this state in 1850. She possessed many noble traits of character and leaves hosts of friends to mourn her death.

A SAD DEATH. - Minnie Fischer, the five-year old daughter of Mrs. C. H. Fischer, who year old daughter of Mrs. C. H. Fischer, who resides at 297 Ivy street, died yesterday aftermoon after a short but painful illness. Last Monday Minnie left school because of a severe headache and that night was in a high fever. The next morning she was delirious and a physician was called in. For a day or two she improved, but on Saturday last began to grow worse and continued to sink until yesterday afternoon when she died. The child's father has been dead only a few weeks. The body will be laid to rest today in the family barying ground in Oakland cemetery.

BENEATH THE BLUE AND THE GRAY.—
When the blue and the gray monument is erected in Westview cemetery, the skeletons of six soldiers will be planted near it. The keletons are now in the possession of Mr. McLurney, to whom they have been delivered one at a time. Two of them are supposed to have been artillerymen and were unearthed on Daniel Johnson's land about three miles north of Atlanta. Another is from Tidwell's garden, on Peachtree creek, and is supposed to be that of J. H. Taylor, of company A, first Kentucky regiment. The other three are from Walker's mill, on the Plaster's bridge road.

North Georgia Agricultural College.

—By request of Hon. W. P. Price, Governor McDaniel has appointed the following board of visitors to the North Georgia Agricultural college, at Dahlonega: Dr. J. S. Lawton, Atlanta: Professor C. B. LaHatte, Gainesville; Hon. T. B. Cabaniss, Forsyth; Colonel W. A. Charters. Dahlonega: Colonel Theo Moreno, Gainesville; Captain I. H. Johnson. Dawsonville; Hon. Lewis Davis, Toccoas, Hon. F. P. Rice, Atlanta; Hon. E. P. Chamberlin, Atlanta; Hon. J. P. Osborn, Cleveland; Hon. W. J. Pike, Jefferson; Colonel A. J. Julian, Wooley's Ford; Hon. Walter Coleman, Ellijay. The commencement of the college begins on the 13th instant.

He Drove All the Way.—A patent medicine vendor reached Atlanta yesterday, who has driven all the way from Sacramento, California. His name is Charles C. Giles, and he is selling an Indian blood purifier. Mr. Giles left Sacramento on the first of February, 1885, and during the past fifteen months has been selling his medicinesthrough the country. He has a neat wagon drawn by a pair of small clay bank ponies. The team is the same that Mr. Giles left Sacramento with and both ponies are in good condition now. He expects to drive them back to the Pacific coast and says that they can duplicate the trip the day after he reaches home. The ponies are at Murphy's stables.

His Foot was Crushed.—Frank Marshall, a colored yard hand in the employment of the East Tennessee railroad, had his left foot badly mashed yesterday afternoon near the western end of Alabama street. Marshall was helping to switch some freight cars, and in making up a train near the end of the street, met with the accident. He was standing between two cars in the act of making the coupling with his left foot on the rail. The train was pushed back with great force and before Marshall could realize his danger the wheel was upon the toes of his foot, where it stopped. Marshall's cries brought some of the train men to his relief, but the engineer had to move the train before the injured man could be taken from the cars. It was found necessary to amputate two toes.

THE GROWING CROPS.

JUNE REPORTS OF THE COMMIS-SIGNER OF AGRICULTURE.

The Outlook in the Main Hopeful-General Condition of Field Products - State of the Corn, Oat, Wheat and Cotton Crops Fruit Abundant-The Wool Clip-Crop Notes,

Commissioner of Agriculture J. T. Hendercon has kindly permitted THE CONSTITUTION to examine the proof sheets of the June crop report. It will be observed from the extracts that follow that with a few exceptions the outlook is hopeful.

The general condition of the crops is thus outlined.

The condition of the growing crops is much below the average for the season. The corn crop is 4 points below the reported condition of last year's crop on the first of June. The foat crop falls 13 points, wheat 14, and cotton 15 below the condition of last year at this date. The Irish potato crop only is reported to be better than average.

The heavy rains in many localities have caused revious damage to corn and cotton, necessitating in many instances entire replanting of crops on bottom lands. outlined.

In many instances entire replanting of crops of bottom lands.

The crops are from ten to twenty days behind the usual stage of growth at this date.

The retarded condition, due to a late spring and the necessity for re-planting, has probably had an undue influence with correspondence in these disparaging estimates. The season has been phenomenal, and so much depends in the early stages of growth upon future contingencies, that a comparison, as in this instance, with unlike seasons gives an uncertain indication of the prospective condition.

an unceriain indication of the prospective condition.

The cotton stand is generally poor. This is attributed to the cool weather, to the beating rains and baked condition of the lands, and is also due in a large degree to defective seed, resulting from the damaged condition of last year's crop.

Nearly a full crop of oats will be harvested in north Georgia, while only about three-fourths of a crop will be realized in middle Georgia and much less than this in the more southern sections. In the southern part of the state nearly the entire crop was sown in the fall, and was badly winterkilled, and in many localities entirely destroyed.
Much of this area, for lack of seed for resowing, has been planted in corn and cotton. The damage from rust in the whole state, but confined mostly to middle and east Georgia, is about seven per cent.

to middle and east Georgia, is about seven per cent.

The wheat crop in north and middle Georgia, which embraces the most of its acreage, is less than two-thirds of an average. Since this crop, in the recent years with which the comparison is made for the presen year, has hardly paid the cost of production, this crop will be produced, doubtless, at a considerable loss to the farmer. Rust has bean reported in but few counties, and with the general observation that the disease has been observed only on the blades. The estimated damage from this cause is 4 per cent. The shortness of the crop is attributed mainly to the severe freezes in January.

The farmers of the state will be interested. The farmers of the state will be interested in the following details:

Corn—The condition and prospect, compared to the average of five years, in north Georgia, is 90; in middle Georgia, 39; in southern west Georgia, 101; and in the whole state, 95. The condition and prospect for June of last year was reported 99.

Outs—The yield or prospective yield where not harvested, is in north Georgia, 98; in middle Georgia, 78; in southwest Georgia, 61; in east Georgia, 57; in southwast Georgia, 68; and in the whole state 1—failing 13 points below the average for the state last year.

st year. Wheat—The prospective yield, in comparison ith an average, is in north Georgia, 67: in middle har average, is in north Georgia, 67; in middle rise, 49; in scuthwest Georgia, 81; in east Geor-G; and in southeast Georgia, 90. The average the state, leaving southeast Georgia, where e is sown, out of this estimate, is 65, ottom—The stand, in comparison with a good d, is in north Georgia, 72; in middle Georgia, n southwest Georgia, 86; in east Georgia, 88; and be whole state, 84.

stand, is in north Georgia, 72; in middle Georgia, 83; in southwest Georgia, 85; in east Georgia, 85; and in the whole state, 84.

The condition of the plant, compared to an average of five years, is in north Georgia, 78; in middle Georgia, 84; in southwest Georgia, 85; in east Georgia, 85; in southeast Georgia, 97; and the average for the whole state, 77.

The stand on the first of June falls 15 points, and the general condition of the plant 9 points below the estimate for this time last year.

Tobacco.—Correspondents have been asked to give the total number of acres this year in tobacco in their respective counties. Responses to this question have been received from 46 counties, reporting 2,153 acres. The entire acreage in 1879, according to the census report, was 971 acres. Assuming a proportional increase in the acreage in counties from which no reports have been received, that of the present year will be about 3,500 acres. About three-fourths of this area is in north Georgia and the larger part of the remaining fourth in middle Georgia.

gia had the larger part of the remaining found in middle Georgia.

The correspondents, with few exceptions, state that the crop promises good results.

MISCELLANEOUS CROIS.—Rice.—The condition and prospect in southwest Georgia is 88; in east Georgia, 33, and in southeast Georgia, which contains much the largest average in the crop, 36.

Sugar Cane.—The stand in middle Georgia is 88; southwest Georgia, 93; in east Georgia, 93; and in south Georgia 8.

Sugar Cane.—The stand in middle Georgia is 88; southwest Georgia, 93; in east Georgia, 93; and in south Georgia, 88.

The condition in middle Georgia, in comparis m with five years, is 91; in southwest Georgia, 96; in cast Georgia, 96; and in southwest Georgia, 96; in cast Georgia, 95; and in southwest Georgia, 87.

Sorahum.—The condition of the crop in north, middle and southwest Georgia 18 94; and in east Georgia 81.

Irish Potatoes.—This prospective yield is 98 in north Georgia and middle Georgia; in southwest Georgia; 96 in east Georgia; 95 in southwest Georgia; and the average for the whole state 96.

Sweet Potatoes.—The acreage, in comparison with five years, is 91 in north Georgia; 97 in middle Georgia; 93 in southwest Georgia; 92 in east Georgia, and 85 in southwest Georgia; 92 in east Georgia, and 85 in southwest Georgia; 93 in orth Georgia; 92 in middle and southwest Georgia; 88 in east Georgia; 94 in southeast Georgia, and the average for the state 92.

Ground Peas.—The condition, compared to an average, ranges from 92 to 96 in the different sections of the state, and average 95 for the whole state.

Meious.—The condition, compared to an average tions of the state, and averages 95 for the whole state.

Meions.—The condition, compared to an average of five years, is 93 in north Georgia; 94 in middle Georgia; 104 in southwest Georgia, 94 in middle Georgia; 104 in southwest Georgia.

Freur.—Feach.—The prospect compared to a fu'll crop in north Georgia; 80; in east Georgia, 71; in southwest Georgia, 83; in east Georgia, 73, and in southeast Georgia, 75. This points to three-fourths of a crop for the state. The fruit has been dropping in many localities, and the yield falls considerably below the probabilities of the yield and escaped frost on the first of May. An entire failure is reported in a limited area in the more mountainous portion of northeast Georgia.

Apples.—The prospect compared to a full crop in north Georgia is 63; in east Georgia, 78, and in southwest Georgia, 80; in east Georgia, 78, and in southwest Georgia 75. This indicates a little less than three-fourths of a crop.

The crop of last year was large, and as the fruitful and unfruiful years with this crop alternate with much regularity, the indicated yield of this year may be regarded as comparatively large for an "off" year.

GRAFES.—The grape prospect is generally report-year may be regarded as comparatively large for an "off" year.

GRAPES. The grape prospect is generally reported as promising in all parts of the state. The prospect, compared to a full crop in north Georgia, is 98; in middle Georgia, 97; in southwest Georgia, 98. in east Georgia, 93, and in southeast Georgia, 87. WCOL CIP.—The wool clip in north Georgia, compared to an average of five years, is 87; in middle Georgia, 91; in southwest Georgia, 90; jin east and southeast Georgia, 87; and the average for the whole state, 88.

Commencement Exercises of the Theological Department.

The commencement exercises of the theological department of Clark university took place yesterday morning at the Loyd street place yesterday morning at the Loyd street Methodist Episcopal church.

The exercises were attended by a large concourse of the friends of the institution. On the stage were Bishop J. M. Walden. Rev. Dr. R. H. Rust, of Cincinnati; Mr. E. H. Gammon, of Chicago, the founder of the department; Governor H. D. McDaniel, Hon. G. J. Orr, state school commissioner, and Hon. W. M. Becse of Washington. Ga.

Reese, of Washington, Ga.

At no other time in its history were the commencement exercises of the department more interesting. The graduates exhibited a high degree of culture, and reflected great credit upon themselves, their instructors, and their institution. their institution.

After an inspiring song by the university quartette, the following programme was executed:

Our Mission—H. N. Brown, Cleveland, Tenn.
"Rocks Abead"—N. H. Williams, Corinth, Miss.
The Preaching Required for the Times—A. P.

The Outlook for Africa—T. W. Haigler, Decatur.
Christ in Human Progress—J. M. Cox, Atlanta.

After the conferring of degrees and diplomas, brief addresses were made by several of the visitors.

To-day, the commencement exercises of the college and normal school will occur. The annual reception will take place at 7:36 o'clock, p. m. Among the interesting events of the occa-sion will be the address by Rev. Dr. A. G. Haygood.

All the exercises will take place at the Loyd street Methodist Episcopal church.

THE SOUTHERN CIRCUIT.

Important Meeting of Southern Theatrical Managers.

Important meetings of the theatrical managers of the southern states were held at De-Give's opera house on Monday and Tuesday. Give's opera house on Monday and Tuesday.

The managers present were: S. H., Cohen, Augusta; F. P. O'Brien, Rirmingham, Ala.; H.
Horne, Macon; L. DeGive, Atlanta; Theo.
Faley, Columbus; T. F. Johnson, Savannati;
J. Tannenbaum, Montgomery, Ala.; Louis
Gerstman, Selma, Ala.; Tritz Stawb, Knoxville, Tenn.; J. O. Milson, Nashville, Tenn.;
P. R. Albert, Chattanooga, Tenn.; T. H. Simp-

P. R. Albert, Chattanooga, Tenn.; T. H. Simpson, Lynchburg, Va., and A. B. Campbell, Columbia, S. C.

Heretofore, the theatres in the south have acted independently. Hereafter, they will act together, their organization to be known as the Southern Circuit. Of this organization, L. DeGive, Atlanta, was elected president; T. B. O'Brien, Birmingham, Ala., vice president; and S. H. Cohen, Amenta secretary and treasurer. Ingham, Alat., vice president; and S. H. Cohen, Augusta, scoretary and treasurer.

It was decided that none but first class companies will be hereafter allowed to play in theatres of the circuit. All poor shows will be relegated to the barns, where they properly belong. Prices of admission will be reduced to suit the popular purse. It is understood that they will be twenty-five, thirty-five, and seventy five cents. The rext meeting of the managers will be held in Birmingham, Ala., in September next.

Mr. J. Tannenbaum will have charge of the booking for the circuit.

A Lucky Man. Loyd French, of Colesburg, was in town Wednesday and called at the News office. His good-natured face was enwreathed in smiles, and "he seemed just s happy as a big sun flower that nods and bends on the breezes." Loyd has just received $5,000 as the result of a $1 investment in the April drawing of The Louisiana State Lottery, and no wonder he i happy. Mr. French says he has drawn several small prizes in this lottery before, but had not bought a ticket for several years until Janu-ary; since then he has a dollar in each monthly drawing, and the fourth time he hit it for even $5,000. The number of the ticket wa 11,545. Mr. French has a wife and five children, and is a man in moderate circumstances. The money he has drawn in the lottery will put him square on his feet, an give him a start in the world.—Elizabet. (Kr.) News. May 1.

TALKED ABOUT AT POLICE HEAD-QUARTERS LAST NIGHT.

Negro Man Deserts His Wife and Children, Law-ing Them in a Destitute Condition—His Babe Dies and He is Arrested—A Lady's Ter-rible Experience—Other Events.

Bill Maxwell, a stont, able bodied, desperate ooking negro, was arrested last night by Patrolman Moncrief, and was locked up. Max well is charged with deserting his wife and

The desertion is one of the most heartless that has ever been reported at police head-

Maxwell has been living on Ellis street for a long time. He is the husband of an industrious, quiet wife, and the father of two weak children. About two weeks ago his wife was taken sick, and in a few days was so low that she was unable to work. When the woman ceased work, the husband began to complain, and one day last husband began to complain, and one day last week when his wife gave birth to a child he abandoned her entirely. The woman was in a destitute condition. Her children were not strong enough to work, and the babe was weak and puny. The mother gave her time as best she could to her children, but was unable todo anything for them. Soon after her husband left her stock of provisions gave cut, and then with hunger staring her and her children in the face, the mother sent the two children in the face, the mother sent the two children in the face, the mother sent the two who were large enough to walk out to ask or help. The children who went forth to ask for cascity met with little success and for want of medicine and proper attention the babe died. This was on Sunday morning, but when death came the mother was too weak and sick to leave her bed and have the dead child buried. Sunday see the lay wayke on the hed togsing in naive ss she lay awake on the bed tossing in pain and agony she was compelled to look upon the face of her dead babe. Sunday night brought no change, and on Monday dark came without bringing relief. That night late some colored people living in the neighborhood called to see the sick woman and ascertained for the first time that her babe was dead. The woman sent out several messages to her Lusband yesterday morning, and he finally called at her house. She then asked him to bury the child, telling him that she would make complaint at police headquarters if he did not. He promised to do so and left, but never returned. Yesterday morning early information of the death was carried to police headquarters, and Mounted Officer Thompson was tent out to investigate the matter. He first made arrangements for the burial of the dead child and then from the woman's lips heard the story of her husband's desertion. After seeing that the dead babe was buried at the city's expense, Officer Thompson returned to polfor the first time that her babe was dead. expense, Officer Thompson returned to pol-toc headquarters and posted a description of Maxwell. The description led to his arrest about midnight. He is booked for abandon-ing his family. ing his family.

Charged With Assaulting a Lady.

Mrs. Jones, who resides on Marietta street. near Foundry, stepped out of her back door last night about dark to get a bucket of water. Just as Mrs. Jones reached the well wafer. Just 48 Mrs. Jones reached the weil a large white man sdddenly sprang up and grabbed her by the shoulder. Tae attack was sudden and unexpected. It frightened Mrs. Jones terribly, but she managed to shake herself free from the man, and, screaming at the top of her voice, ran back into the house. As so on the war and the Mrs. Lunes was enterior. of her voice, ran back into the house. As so me as the man saw that Mrs. Jones was entering the house he turned and fled. Mrs. Jones, however, had obtained a good view of him, and as soon as she could compose herself sent for an officer. Patrolman Abbott responded to the call, and as soon as Mrs. Jones had related what had transpired and given a description of the man the patrolman started out. and given a description of the man the patrolman started out on the bunt. About midnight he found alman who subswered the description. The mun gave his name as Walter Wilson and said that he is from Douglas county. He denied being he man who made the assault but was given a cell to await identification this morning.

Another One of the Lawshe Gang.

Will Baldwin, a white man who is supposed o have been connected with the Jim Lawshe ourglary, was given a cell in the Fulton ourty jail yesterday. Several months ago when Detectives Bedford and Steerman traced let of stolen goods to Lawshe's place on hear's Ferry avenue, they succeeded in un-wrthing one of the biggest and boldest gangs f burglars that ever operated in Atlanta. They managed to arrest all of the gang except ve found that Baldwin had gone they turned heir attention to the conviction of those hey had arrested, and in time succeeded in eeing them given terms. Day before yester-ay the detectives ascertained that Baldwin and come back to Atlanta and that he was located near West, End. That night they re-paired to the place and after waiting awhile found Baldwin. The appearance of the de-tectives was a complete surprise to Baldwin and he was taken without any trouble.

A Burglar on Marietta Street.

A burglar stole about fifty dollars from Mr. M. Fluker at 108 Marietta street night beore last. Mr. Fluker keeps a boarding house t that place and collected the money yester-ay evening late. That night when he retired e left the money in his vest pocket. Some me during the night a thief who had probaconcealed himsel in the house entered Mr. Fluker's bed room and securing the money left quietly throug a back door. Mr. Fluker did not detect his loss until yesterday morning. The case was reported to police headarters in mediately and detectives are now usily engaged upon it.

He Was Assessed Fifteen and Cost.

Ed Beckham, the negro boot black, who gave Patrolman Whitley so much trouble day before yesterday at the Union passenger depet, was arraigned in police court yesterday morning. The evidence againt the prisoner showed conclusively that he had been disor-derly and had resisted the officer strenuously. Judge Anderson fined Beckham fifteen dollars and seventy-five cents. Beckham could not pay the fine and was sent to the rock pile.

Walter Land, who knocked a negro bay in the head on Broad street day before yester-day was arrested last night. Several chickens were stolen from Mr. Calloway at 143 Jones street last night.

A drunken woman created quite a disturb ance on Marietta street near the cotton factory resterday and Black Maria was required to bring her into the city prison.

DEATH OF MRS. BOWDEN.

Industrial Display—Kitchen, Needle, Pencil,
Farm, Garden and Workshop.

Yesterday was the day set apart for the industrial exhibit at Atlanta University. A number of visitors, with several members of the state board of visitors appointed by the governor, assembled at the morning chapel exercises, which were conducted by Professor C. W. Francis. The visitors then rengired to governor, assembled at the morthing chaper exercises, which were conducted by Professor C. W. Francis. The visitors then repaired to North hall, where they found a most tempting display of cakes, pies, bread and biscuit, prepared by the hands of the graduating class, under the instruction of the capable teacher, Miss Elkins. That these viands were not only tempting to the eye, but also toothsome to the taste, was absolutely proved by your reporter. The class went through a very satisfactory examination in the chemistry and best methods of cooking, showing both theory and practice. The visitors next examined a very interesting display of sewing, in one of the roems of Stone hall. Here were all sorts of garments, aprons, dresses and underclothing made by the girls under the instruction of Miss Elkins. One of the sewing classes was examined in regard to the implements and methods of sewing and showed careful train

M. Sessions, the farm manager, who has become widely known for his skill and success in his farming operations, gave an entertaining description of these vegetables and other products displayed. There were sixty varieties of grasses, besides cats, corn, rye, barley, sugar cane and many kinds of grains, with faits vegetables sill recogning and all certains. finite, vegetables, silk cocoons and all sorts of farm and garden products, exceedingly thrifty od productive. In the model barn which the committee next visited, they examined the stalls for cattle and borses, the farm tools, hay and grain, and live stock of various kinds, all showing good care and scientific management. In going across the grounds to the 'Knowles Industrial building," Mr. Sessions pointed out the growing crops, all thrifty and promising, managed and tended with scientific care. He has cut three or four crops of clover in some instances from the same spot. Vegetables, fruits and berries for the trade, grains and grasses for the stock, from the staple crops. At the "Knowles Industrial Building," a large three story brick building, the crowd of visitors had largely increased, and listened with much interest to the recitations in practical tool using, conducted by the efficient teacher, Mr. C. C. Tucker. The boys readily answered questions upon the various uses and kinds of tools, saws, planes, hammers, squares, chisels, etc. A practical exhibition was given of the use of tools, the forty boys with their work aprons vigorously plying their tools to show the application of mechanical principles. Various articles made by the boys were on exhibition, such as chairs, tables, wheelbarrows, etc. An exhibit of practical wood turning was given by the boys upon the dozen lathes turned by the steam engine which supplies the power to the machinery. An interesting fact was stated by the teacher, that one of the boys in the class had during the last winter built a school house in Alabama upon a contract. Rhetorical exercises in South hall next fol-lowed, in charge of Mr. Sinnott, the normal instructor. The compositions, recitations and music were all very creditable, and highly en-terts ined the audience. About noon all gath-ered in S. one hall chapel, and listened to brief but forcible addresses from several members of the board of visitors and others.

Rev. W. J. Scott, D. D., chairman of the sub-committee of visitors, made a brief but excellent speech, highly commending the industrial exhibit and the general condition of the university. Mayor Hillyer also spoke with his accustomed impressiveness, mentioning with pride the fact that he had himself, while a member of the state senate, drawn up the bill organizing and endowing the university as a state institution. Rev. Dr. Strieby, D. D., of New York, senior secretary of the American missionary association which has built up so many institutions for the colored people of the south, in a ringing speech referred to his gratitude for the success of this institution, and for the favor it had received from the legislature and people of Georgia. Rev. Dr. W. H. Ward, editor of

of Georgia. Rev. Dr. W. H. Ward, enter of the New York Independent, also made a neat both witty and wise. Good Templars.

Georgia lodge I. O. G. T. is now in a more resperous condition than it has been for years Hardly a night passes but what some new m or members take the solemn vow of a Good Temp-ar. At the last meeting one young man took the row and entered his name as a member of the dee. This meeting of the lodge was an usually leasant one, but before the close of the lodge there was one thing occurred that brought regret to each heart present. This was the announcement that Miss Jennie S. Anderson, one of the lodge's test and most zealous members and one who was lest and most zealous members and one who was leved and highly esteemed by all, had resigned her position as captain of company. A and would soon leave for a few months visit among friends and relations in New York city and Jamiera, Long Island. This indeed was sad news, for she had so efficiently filled her position and company A had furnished at various time such excellent literary programmes. In token of the sincere regret and the high esteem held for her by all the members of the lodge the following resolutions were read and manimously adopted by a rising vote and signed by the officers and all the members of the lodge present;

signed by the officers and all the members of the lodge present:

Whereas, that mysterious something sometimes called "Fate" has invaded the sacred precincts of Georgia lodge and demanded from our ranks one of our best beloved and most useful members, with a view to enriching a distant state and may be a distant lodge, leaving us to fill the void, if such a lt in g were possible, as best we may, and while we are compelled to bow to the inevitable, we would hold toget the duty we owe to our beloved sister who is to be so summarily taken from us, therefore be it Stopped by Rain.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 8 .- [Special.] The rain stopped the game after five innings today, Nashville winning by a score of 4 to 1, Shreve's home tun in the fifth inning saving Chattanooga a shut out. The ground was muddy, but the game was pretty well played, four hits being made off o each pitcher. Nashville made three errors, Chat-tancoga two, and all the runs but one were farly earned. Nashville left for Memphis tonight.

A Game Yesterday. A game of ball was played at Athletic park yesterday afternoon between the Decaturs and Americans, of Atlanta, which resulted in a score of 10 to 8 in favorof the former. The batteries were, for Decatura Green and Burge, and Harper and Beardley, for the home boys. Harper struck out 12 and Green 9. Green was formerly of the Metropolitans of New York. Dunn played a fine game on first and at bat. At one time three men were on bases, when he knocked a home run.

THE SUPERIOR COURT. Several Cases Disposed of by Judge Clarke

Yesterday. The superior court is grinding out business right along. William Spier, a negro who has given the police department no little trouble, was arraigned yesterday on a charge of assault and battery. The jury returned a verdict finding him guilty of stabbing, and he was sentenced to a fine of fifty dollars or six months on the ic works.

Will Payne, a thirteen-year old white lad. was found not guilty of the offense of burglary. Payne is a boy who has been in several very bad scrates, and the police say when they find a werse one they are willing to resign. He is a very hard case, but has a good father and Carrie Ross, colored, is now on trial for perjury. This woman stready has a term to serve for a state offense.

CINDERELLA LAST NIGHT.

Mrs. Benton Scores Another Saccess in the Operetta.

Last night Cinderella was well patronized, notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather. The audience was even more enthusiastic than on the night before. The hundreds thusiastic than on the night before. The hundreds of children were more used to the stage, appeared more natural and were easier managed, and to say the least of it, the Operetta improves upon acquaintence. The principal characters are changed alternately—one set of children taking part one night, and enother set the next night. In this mapper the children taking leading parts are not tired out; but all the other participants are on herd every night.

Last night Miss Flora Shaw played the part of Cinderella. She is a very pretty child, and from her first appearance became a favorite with the anolience.

her first appearance occasions and increase and increase when Mester Harry Yondell and little Miss Annie Madi-on sang the 'juvenile courtship duett' the andience cheered vociferously and tried to get them to return but they would not come. The military drill was better last night than it was the night before, as the children were not so easily disconcerted. When little Miss Rebecca Goldberg came out and sang the audience applicated to the echo. She was encored twice and responded with very pretty solos. She is exceedingly and the same out and sang the support of the same out and sang the same out to the same out and the same out to the same out and echo. She was encored twice and responded with very pretty solos. She is exceedingly small and has a very pretty voice that is remerkably well trained. She has a sister who is on the stage and has made a success as a prima doma. She is said to have a fine soprano voice. Many were disappointed at the non-appearance of the eight little toddlers in the quadrille. They could not be induced to appear last night, but will be on hand tonight.
